Russia, Iran in Pact On Troops, Oil

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, April 5 (AP)—The Iranian government announced an agreement with Soviet Russia today on withdrawal of Russian troops, oil and Azerbaijan. Prince Firouz, minister of propaganda, told a news conference that as a result of negotiations here and at Moscow "all outstanding questions between the two countries have been settled on a basis of complete reciprocity and good will."

No formal treaty has been signed, Firouz said, but the cabinet met until 1 a. m. today and "gave unanimous approval" to an official communique outlining the basis of the settlement, reached yesterday. This communique was formally signed at 3:30 a. m. by Premier Ahmed Qavam and Ambassador I. V. Sadchikov of Russia, he said.

The communique said: "complete agreement was reached on all questions" and provided:

1—Red army troops to evacuate Iranian territory within one and a half months from March 24.

2—Formation of a joint Iranian-Soviet oil company, exact terms to be submitted to Parliament within seven months after March 24.

3—The Azerbaijan problem to be recognized as a "purely internal affair" of Iran's

(The Moscow radio broadcast the communique, and announced "full agreement on all questions.")

Concerning oil, Firouz said that "only an agreement in principle has been reached and details will be worked out later—subject to the approval of Parliament, of course."

He was asked if oil discussions were not illegal in view of Iranian law that such negotiations cannot be carried on while foreign troops are on Iranian soil.

Firouz said the law specified oil concessions, whereas the proposal concerns "the organization of an oil company jointly financed by Persian and Russian capital."

U. S., Britain Still in Fight For Iran Oil

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—The battle for Iranian oil was on in earnest today, with Russia all but guaranteed an initial foothold in the back doorway to the fabulously rich Middle East petroleum fields now dominated by British and American interests.

Agents for one American company are at work at least informally in Iran, seeking a concession which, if granted, would buttress British holdings along the Persian gulf.

Under Iranian law no concessions can be negotiated while foreign troops are still on her soil.

The big question in the minds of interested petroleum men here is how far south the Soviet concession would extend. Russian interest in a Persian gulf port has long been an open secret. Such a grant, however, would cross territory coveted by both British and American concerns.

Stalin, Smith In 2-Hour Talk

MOSCOW, April 5 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, newly-appointed U. S. ambassador to Moscow, said today he had a

Stalin Gen. Smith

"highly satisfactory" two-hour talk with Prime Minister Stalin at the Kremlin late last night.

Smith delivered a letter from President Truman to Stalin.

The ambassador said Stalin appeared to be in excellent health and was "very courteous and very agreeable."

F.D. Not Soldier In N. Y. Tax Law

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—The New York tax department ruled today executors for President Roosevelt's estate should file a 1945 state personal income tax return because "there is considerable doubt" as to the Chief Executive's military exemption.

Estate attorneys had asked a ruling on whether the President was exempt on grounds he was a member of the armed forces as "commander in chief" at his death April 12, 1945.

M'Arthur Tells Russia He's Boss of Japan

TOKYO, April 5 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur launched the four-power allied council for Japan today, notifying it that its function would be to advise him while he retains unchallenged command.

The council promptly gave him four pieces of advice, all offered by Russia, whose delegate warned of "increasing activity of reactionary forces" among Japanese.

Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, Soviet representative, spoke up as soon as MacArthur's opening address—a stirring plea for all nations to renounce their right to wage war—was finished.

Derevyanko proposed:

Excluding the press; examining MacArthur's decrees seven days and Imperial rescripts 10 days in advance of their issuance to Japanese; internationalizing the council secretariat (U. S. Brig. Gen. Bonner F. Fellers now is secretary-general); and holding new Japanese elections if next Wednesday's balloting elects "unsuitable" Diet members.

MacArthur in his speech said it was advisable that all council meetings be open to public and press, to avoid any suspicion

The United Nations must surely fail, he said, unless nations renounce their sovereign right to wage war; and the U. N. international police force will be "at best but a temporary expedient."

UNO Diplomats Pleased With Iran Oil Accord

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Word of the new Russo-Iranian agreement announced at Tehran today was received with obvious caution by diplomats in the United Nations, although first reactions were generally favorable.

The speed with which the agreement followed the security Council's action evidently caught the experts by surprise.

Authoritative interpretations of the three points of the pact brought out these angles:

1—Iran's commitment to submit to Parliament in seven months oil concessions for Russia undoubtedly means the Russians will get substantially what they want in the way of oil rights.

2—New self-proclaimed autonomous government of Azerbaijan may be on its way out.

3—Provision for removal of all Red troops from Iranian soil in a month and a half from March 24 merely formalizes assurances already given by Russia to the Security Council.

Hoover Pledges U. S. Food Aid

LONDON, April 5 (AP)—Herbert Hoover said today famine is "inevitable" in Europe unless America and other large wheat producing countries immediately ship all available supplies.

Reporting to the emergency food conference here on his personal survey, Hoover declared "hunger sits at the table thrice daily in hundreds of millions of homes."

CHINESE REDS ATTACK

PEIPING, April 5 (INS)—China Central News Agency quoted a Nationalist military dispatch from Tientsin today that more than 10,000 Communist troops under Gen. Li Yun Chang have launched an attack on Tangshan, 75 miles northeast of Tientsin on the railroad to Chinwangtao.

Nylon Charge Kayos Cops

Patrolman Joseph Fisher and Arthur Cadigan are doing station house duty in East Boston today, both mighty happy to stay right there.

They were sent yesterday to keep customers in line outside two adjoining Meridian st. stores where nylons were to go on sale. The officers did a fine job and had men, women and children in a double line that reached to London st., and along to Porter st.

But then the doors opened and the lines scattered as before a hurricane. Screaming, shouting, pushing women rushed for the stores. Fisher lost his hat, badge and various segments of uniform. Cadigan battled his way to a police box and called for reserves. Two squad cars arrived, the stores were closed and the crowd dispersed. Cadigan and Fisher were taken home to get new uniforms.

Yugos Refuse U. S. Plea for Mihailovic

BELGRADE, April 5 (AP)—Yugoslavia refused today a United States request to allow American officers to testify at the forthcoming trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, recently captured Chetnik chieftain, who was among the first resistance leaders in Europe.

Belgrade newspapers devoted almost their entire first pages to publication of the United States note and the Yugoslav refusal. The lengthy Yugoslav answer began with refusal and ended with the assertion "full justice will be done at the trial."

The Yugoslav answer asserted among other things:

The United States note ignored "all the proven treacheries and co-operation with the Germans and criminal acts to his people."

A denial that Mihailovic, who was King Peter's minister of war, led a true resistance movement.

A claim that "today it is definitely proven that Mihailovic met representatives of the German high command in August, 1941, in an armored train in the town of Ljig and discussed mutual co-operation against the national liberation (Tito) forces."

That the exiled Yugoslav government in London increased Mihailovic's rank to help in this fight.

That Mihailovic aided Allied airmen to improve his chance of obtaining Allied arms.

Mihailovic's capture was announced March 24. A dispatch then said his wife had died in a concentration camp. This information proved incorrect, as Mrs. Mihailovic is still in Belgrade.

Butter Line Battler Given 10 Days Jail

Mrs. Dorothy Deshler, 27, of Douglass st., Cambridge, today was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $5 in East Cambridge District Court today in connection with the Central sq. butter line squabble in which a Cambridge cop said he got socked.

Mrs. Deshler, diminutive wife of an ex-Navy man and mother of a 4-year-old son, pleaded not guilty to charges of assault and battery on Patrolman John J. Trant and refusing to move on his orders.

At this point, Asst. City Solicitor Henry J. Smith told Judge Arthur P. Stone that he wished the assault charge to be dismissed.

The proposal was also agreeable to City Councilor Michael J. Neville, attorney for Mrs. Deshler. It was then that Judge Stone decided otherwise, declaring:

"Cambridge is not the place to tolerate a police officer being slapped in the face. The sentence is 10 days on the charge of assault and battery and a $5 fine for refusing to move."

Atty. Neville appealed the sentence and $200 bail was set pending grand jury action.

Mrs. Deshler offered no testimony. Patrolman Trant read from his notes, testifying that he had been ordered to break up a butter line on the request of abutting merchants. He said Mrs. Deshler slapped him in the face.

The police version at the time of the affair was that Mrs. Deshler was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Percy Stewart, when Patrolman Trant arrived.

"Get the hell out of here," Mrs. Deshler quoted Trant as saying to her mother.

When she remonstrated with the officer for using such language, Mrs. Deshler said, Trant grabbed her by the arm, pushed it up and behind her and led her to a police cruiser.

Trant's version of the affair differed. He said Mrs. Deshler wound up and socked him when he tried to disperse the line after he learned there wasn't any butter for sale that day.

Bobby-Sox Girl Tells of Trysts With Band Man

LOS ANGELES, April 5 (AP)—A 16-year-old bobby-soxer who recovered recently from an overdose of sleeping tablets testified that on four occasions she was intimate with Walter (Benny) Benson, 32-year-old trombonist in a dance band.

"I met him in San Diego, but I didn't go out with him until after his band had moved to Hollywood," brown-haired Patricia Dove Littleton related at Benson's trial on a morals charge.

She said she was at a Hollywood night spot when:

"One night Benny pointed to me and then to himself and asked to take me home. We drove up in the hills and he told me his wife, Bonnie, didn't understand him and he'd ring my telephone all day unless I loved him."

Benson's wife was in court.

Patricia acknowledged she had been out with four other members of the orchestra.

Barred Doctor Ends Life

A former Dorchester doctor, barred from practicing in Massachusetts since 1944 because of a narcotic law violation, was found dead today, his throat slashed and a surgeon's scalpel clutched in his right hand, near the intersection of Randolph ave. and Brook rd., Milton, not far from Milton Academy.

Papers in the pocket of the victim indicated he was Dr. Don D. Cornell, 39, of Siloam Springs, Ark., graduate of Tufts medical school and resident of Dorchester ave., Dorchester, until revocation of his license in September, 1944.

Medical Examiner George D. Dalton of Quincy, who ordered the body removed to the Keohane Undertaking Parlors, Hancock st., Quincy, said the man apparently had committed suicide. Death, he said, was due to a throat laceration, so inflicted as to indicate medical knowledge.

Dr. Dalton later performed an autopsy.

The body was found by Mrs. Anne Callahan of Brook rd., who was on her way to attend church.

Death apparently had occurred a few hours before discovery of the body, according to Dr. Dalton.

The victim's hands and face were bloodstained and the body was slumped in a kneeling position. The scalpel was gripped in the right hand.

Born in 1907, Dr. Cornell was graduated from Springfield College and received his master's degree at New York University before being graduated from Tufts Medical in 1939.

He interned for two years at Carney Hospital and was chief resident surgeon at Long Island Hospital in 1941-42.

Later he entered private practice and in September, 1943, was arrested in Portland, Me., on a charge of obtaining narcotics from two druggists under false pretenses.

Eventually he was found guilty and the Massachusetts State Board of Registration in Medicine revoked his license Sept. 13, 1944, after finding him guilty of gross misconduct.

He apparently had gone to Arkansas after that as papers found in his clothing indicated he was a resident of North Mt. Olive st., Siloam Springs.

Russians Again Cart Away Big Reich Factories

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, April 5 (AP)—The Russians are feverishly at work taking additional factories out of their zone of occupation. The German zonal administration for industry estimates between 160 and 172 plants are being dismantled.

Farbenfabrik Wolfen in Saxony furnished color film to the Russian occupation authorities with which a production of the Moscow victory parade was made. The pictures turned out well and the Russians promptly ordered the German factory dismantled and taken to Soviet land.

At Neukaliss, Mecklenburg, there is a paper factory which turns out an especially high grade heavy paper for diplomas, honor scrolls, etc.

"Take it along," were Soviet instructions to the local commander.

The owner of the factory, who was also the mayor, did some fast thinking.

"My plant is outmoded," he said. "Supposing I go to Leningrad and have a modern, up-to-date plant erected for you."

The Russian commander reported to his superiors.

"Take him along, too," was the laconic reply. "We'll see about a new plant later."

The Horch automobile works in Saxony, makers of high-grade cars, are being crated for shipment to the Soviet Union.

Sixteen of the largest paper factories in the Russian zone are being carted east, despite on order from Maj. Gen. Dubrowski, military governor for Saxony, that paper production in the area be stepped up.

By May 15, an order runs, virtually half of the gigantic Leuna works near Merseburg, Germany's greatest nitrogen factory, is to be on its way to Russia. Experts claim it will take two years to dismantle completely so gigantic a complex.

WINS ANNULMENT—Charging that David Street, singer, was not legally divorced when he married her, Lois Andrews, screen star, was given an annulment in Los Angeles Superior Court.

She Tried to Oust His Blind Aunt, Suing Hubby Says

His socialite wife took their three children and left home because he refused to put out his blind aunt who made her home with them, James S. Murphy, Jr., ex-Army major and former president of Stickney & Poor Spice Co., testified today in Salem Probate Court where he sought an uncontested divorce from Jean Grabow Murphy on grounds of desertion.

Murphy, Harvard track star of the '20s, son of the late James S. Murphy, prominent Boston businessman, and nephew of the late John R. Murphy, onetime Boston fire commissioner and mayoralty candidate, told the court his wife became embittered when he contracted spinal meningitis in 1940 and was forced to make certain financial economies because of reduction in income.

He testified his wife quarreled with him over letting the domestic help go and on Nov. 9, 1940, renewed her demand his blind aunt leave the house.

That night he testified, she woke up the three children and left with them. She later took them to a sister's home in New York. Murphy said his wife rejected all pleas to return and he went into the service. On his return from overseas last December, he said, he tried to see his wife and children, but found she and their son had gone to Florida, leaving the two daughters in New York.

Mrs. Murphy is the former Jean Grabow, daughter of Edward R. Grabow, wealthy hotel owner of Brookline and Swampscott. She divorced her first husband, Paul C. Sanborn, in Reno in 1927.

Judge John V. Phelan took the petition under advisement.

Dog Pays in Butter . . . How?

Teddy, the very intelligent collie-chow of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tinkham of Eliot ave., West Newton, certainly knows what side his bread is buttered on, and today he proved it.

It seems Teddy is a prime favorite with the Tinkham's next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullaney, who come up every day with a choice bit of additional food—quite often steak.

So today Teddy forgot that charity begins at home and pawed his way into the Mullaney home bearing one-half pound of butter, still wrapped and undamaged. Now, this is the mystery: The Tinkham have not lost any butter, and no one in the neighborhood has reported any missing as yet.

And Teddy won't talk.

Colonel's Dilemma

Was He Double-Daddy or Not?

WATERBURY, Ct., April 5 (AP)—Judge Edward J. Quinlan reserved decision today on the application of Lt. Col. Edward J. Cooper of New Haven for the annulment of his proxy marriage to Mrs. Helen Ross April Cooper of Philadelphia which the court described as a "weird situation."

Cooper testified that he made arrangements for the proxy marriage while he was stationed at Hawaii in September, 1944 after he had received a letter from the defendant informing him that he was the father of twin boys. Cooper alleged that, while he signed and executed the necessary papers for the marriage by proxy, he had never obtained a marriage license nor was there any actual wedding ceremony.

The Army officer said that he received a letter from Mrs. Cooper telling him the two boys were ill, a fact, he said, he was unable to verify through the American Red Cross. Two weeks after that, he testified, he received a trans-Pacific telephone call from Mrs. Cooper telling him the children had died.

Cooper said he obtained an emergency furlough and returned at once to Philadelphia where he became suspicious because there were no signs of children's clothing and other such belongings in his wife's house. Further investigation, he said, failed to disclose any birth or death certificates, or any records in hospitals and cemeteries of the alleged births or deaths.

Cooper said his wife had three grown children from a previous marriage which ended in divorce.

Kid Quadruplets

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 5 (AP)—Daisy, with a glint in her eye and her goatee newly-trimmed, nonchalantly posed for photographers today with her four kids—born last Saturday at the home of her owner, William A. Roehrig, 46-year-old grocer.

Birth of the quadruplets, a rare occurrence in the goat world, failed to disturb the calm of their grandmother, Amelia.

The quads, three does and a billy, are thriving.

School Man's Prison Sentences Reduced

Sentences totaling 42 to 48 years, imposed on James M. McGillivray, 39, formerly of Welles ave., Dorchester, ninth grade mathematics teacher at the Patrick T. Campbell School, Roxbury, on attack charges involving two sisters 8 and 9 years old, were reduced today to 18 to 20 years by the appelate division of the superior court.

McGillivray was convicted of criminal assault on a neighbor's children while he was attending them on the night of Nov. 27, 1943.

Looks Like Year More for OPA; Curbs Up Prices

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) —The House Banking Committee today approved a year's extension of OPA but added an amendment which Chairman Spence (D.) of Kentucky said would mean higher retail prices for many items.

The committee voted 15 to 6 to prohibit requiring retailers for a period of six months to absorb larger cost of manufactured products.

Spence, who opposed the amendment, told newsmen, "it means higher prices for automobiles, refrigerators, radios, washing machines and many other items."

OPA officials calculated the amendment might increase auto prices about 4½ per cent. The public probably would pay a total of $300,000,000 more for new autos during the first year after the amendment went into effect.

However, these officials said the effect on retail prices for other goods "may be pretty limited."

In approving a year's extension for OPA beyond June 30 as recommended by President Truman, the banking committee defeated, 13 to 9, a Republican proposal to limit the agency's lease on life to nine months.

How 'Doc' Curley Cures Any Cold

Mayor Curley, at the risk of practicing medicine without a license, announced today he had a "surefire" remedy for the common cold, influenza and pneumonia. He said he had cured the late President Roosevelt, George Curley, the mayor's son now a member of his secretariat, John J. Donovan, Boston newspaperman, and others with his prescription.

The Curley remedy:

Mix a tumbler of dark Bacardi rum with four ounces of honey and the juice of five lemons. Add ice and shake well. Drink this after taking two laxative cold tablets. Hop into bed with an extra blanket or two. An hour later, if able, take another tumbler of the rum, lemon juice and honey.

An epidemic of colds at City Hall and a reporter's complaint of a fever prompted the mayor to tell of his remedy. He said the late President, once seriously ill with a cold, tried it and was at his desk the next day.

'Lone Wolf' Holds Court Spellbound by Eloquence

James E. Walters, infamous "Lone Wolf" of the 1920's, today asked the appelate division of superior court to revise his life sentence, holding three justices spellbound for nearly an hour with a scholarly appeal. It was his first trip outside prison gates since he was sentenced in 1925. During that time the once coastful despoiler has been transformed into a mild little professor who numbers among his friends the nation's greats, one of them Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, he says.

The now-graying prisoner, who terrorized Boston women in a series of apartment raids, during which he tied up his victims and stayed the night, broke down four times during his talk.

When he concluded, Judges Harold P. Williams, Walter L. Collins and Vincent Brogna sat for a long time in silence. They had been treated to philosophy, the law, religion, ethics and literature of many nations. Usually the judges aske questions. Not one of them ventured a query today. They will give their decision later.

Walter's appeal was passed over to Judge Williams and read aloud, after which the prisoner talked extemporaneously for an hour.

"It might be well if I explained why I did not seek freedom when the opportunity offered earlier," he said.

"I was not ready for freedom at that time. It would have been only physical freedom of the body, not of the mind. So I rejected it.

"Like many another child of a broken family I was left alone in childhood. My mother worked and I was brought up by others. I had no religious training. Later, I failed to bridge the gap between adolescence and manhood. Always I was faced with responsibilities and never could I meet responsibility.

"In prison I found unescapable responsibility. I've been inured to the sordid side of life—hollow-eyed men who murmer illogicalities — automatons. Before me loomed an enormous eternity of years. I had committed crime. I admitted it and my need of punishment. I made a resolution, despite walls and bars, public opinion and the press, that I would become an entirely new personality. I was illiterate.

"So I'd need an education. I learned to concentrate.

"I applied to university extension courses. I applied for a job to teach and for 10 years I taught others and thus taught myself. I took one course after another.

"I remember my longing for an unabridged dictionary and I remember my joy when I had attained it. (Here Walters wept.)

"I studied comparative literature through correspondence with a well-known Columbia professor. I also ahd long correspondence with a Harvard law professor. He is a fine man, but I ceased my study and correspondence with him because he was to be elevated to the U. S. Supreme Court.

"Still, I lacked the spiritual stage. I began to study comparative religion. I found what I had missed in childhood. This great void was filled when I became a Catholic."

Here, Walters, ended his plea and shortly afterward went back to State Prison.

In 1940, his case came up automatically before the advisory board of pardons, but the famous prisoner sent word by Warden Francis J. W. Lanagan that he did not care to appear. He gave no reason for refusing to make an appeal for his freedom.

His change of heart came two weeks ago, when he applied for revision of his life term.

A World War I veteran, Walters laughed at police efforts to trap him until they discovered a fingerprint left on a ginger ale bottle in the apartment of one of his victims. It checked with fingerprints on his service record, and he was surprised at his home, surrendering without a struggle.

$153,150 P. O. Loot Dug Up in Florida Yard

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—The Postoffice Department announced today three inspectors working on the "biggest money theft in postal history" had unearthed $153,150 buried nine feet deep in a yard in Jacksonville, Fla.

The money was part of $180,000 stolen by a former employe who, the department said, confessed before he died Aug. 10, 1944.

The inspectors found the money in two tin cans and two glass jars, sealed with parafin and enclosed in two lengths of stove pipe.

Postal authorities said Joseph Marshall, who died 18 months ago, was a clerk in the registry section of the West Bay annex of the Jacksonville postoffice when a Federal Reserve Bank shipment came into his hands. He substituted for it a letter which he had already prepared to an innocent party and gave that letter the same number the money shipment bore. The recipient kept the letter and the subsequent identification of Marshall's handwriting fastened the crime on him.

Bartholomew Nuptials Await Quiz by Aunty

HOLLYWOOD, April 5—Twice-wed and thirtyish Maely Daniele, who hopes her third husband will be Freddy Bartholomew, was due to given the once-over today by Freddy's "Aunt Sissy," Millicent Bartholomew. The screen's Little Lord Fauntleroy, who has never been married, admitted earlier he had been dissuaded from taking a bride until "Aunt Sissy" had a chance to look Maely over.

Maely is a press agent, said to be about 35. Freddy said his aunt intended to fly to Las Vegas, Nev., today for a chat with Maely.

The 22-year-old British-born actor postponed his wedding to Maely indefinitely following a heart-to-heart talk with "Aunt Sissy."

Freddy Bartholomew

He was decidedly upset when news of his wedding plans leaked out before he had confided his intentions to his aunt and grandparents with whom he lives.

"I am sure that they will be sympathetic," he said, "when they know Maely as well as I do."

Freddy, recently discharged from the Army, questioned the estimates of friends as to Maely's age and denied she is 13 years his senior. "I think the difference is only about six years," he said.

Youth Pinned In Trench Saved

Pinned beneath dirt, rocks and slabs of macadam which slid into an 8-foot trench at Crest ave. and Winthrop Shore dr., Charles McLaughlin, 17, of Locust st., Winthrop, was rescued by his brother, two friends and fellow workmen today.

Buried to his armpits, the youth winced with pain as rescuers worked. Dr. Paul Winesap living near by gave him morphine. Freed after a half-hour of digging, Charles was taken to Winthrop Community Hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg, injuries to his left leg, bruises and cuts.

He, his brother, John, 16, and two friends, William and John Moriarty of River rd., Winthrop, were among 35 workmen engaged in repairing water pipes damaged by last winter's storm.

Pin in Throat, Girl Rushed to Hub

Racing from Springfield in a car with State Police escort, 16-months-old Carol Born, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Born of Broad st., Springfield, was today brought to the Children's Hospital for an emergency operation to remove an open safety pin in her esophagus.

The infant swallowed the pin while having her morning bath. Mrs. Born told Dr. A. G. Lavoie she turned for a moment and when she looked back the child was choking.

At Springfield Hospital X-rays showed the pin was lodged at the level of the third rib.

Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz and Mayor Curley have accepted posts as honorary vice chairmen, Eliot announced. Goal of the two-week Boston drive is $50,000. Headquarters are at 60 State st.

Heart Attack Victim Dies Near Parked Car

The body of John M. Smith, 72, of Columbus ave., North Easton, was found today on the grass alongside Blue Hill pkwy., Milton, a short distance from his parked auto.

Medical Examiner George D. Dalton of Quincy said Smith apparently had stopped his car when stricken with a heart attack and walked to the grass where he collapsed and died.

Smith, Easton town clerk and a prominent Mason, was returning from a Masonic function in Boston when he was stricken. He had been a member of the Easton fire department for 35 years and was elected town clerk six years ago. His widow, nine children and two brothers survive.

4 More Hub Colliers Tied Up by Strike

The United Mine Workers' soft coal strike was felt here today as four more of the fleet of 40 colliers operating between Boston and other East Coast ports were forced to tie up.

Unless the strike situation changes, all the coal-carrying vessels will be idle in a week, operators predicted.

NEW DEER ISLE LOCKS

Mayor Curley awarded a $17,160 contract today to the Van Dorn Iron Works of Cleveland to replace locks on the cells at Deer Island House of Correction.

45,000-Ton Navy Pinup

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—A tiny steel shackle pin held the giant aircraft carrier Midway captive in the Hudson river for 57 minutes today.

As four craft took position to turn the 45,000-ton Midway downstream, six sailors in a small boat pulled alongside a huge anchor buoy to loosen the shackle holding the ship's chain. The little pin had jammed and resisted sledgehammer blows.

A stiff wind tilted the buoy to 45 degrees and some of the sailors had to lie flat to hang on.

They finally cut the shackle with an acetylene torch. The warship then went on its way for flight maneuvers in the Atlantic before proceeding to Norfolk, Va., for overhauling.

Fisherman's Union Official Renews Offer to Buy Fleet

Accepting the challenge of Boston fishing boat owners, Capt. Patrick McHugh, secretar-treasurer of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, said today he is willing and eager to purchase the tied-up fleet if the woners will make him a "dollars and cents" offer.

He said he wants "no strings attached to the purchase" and if the deal goes through he also wants to purchase all stores and processing plants. The fleet of 35 trawlers has been idle for 13 weeks as a result of a labor dispute.

Thomas D. Rice, secretary of the Federated Fishing Boats of New England and New York, had challenged McHugh to make good his earlier claim he would buy the vessels. Rice said enforced idleness of the boats was causing owners to consider offers from foreign countries.

It was learned Canada has already made an offer for the purchase of four trawlers and is seeking to purchase three others still under construction. France has also made an offer for some boats. Norway and Sweden, Rice said, both have agents seeking to buy 40 or 50 fishing craft.

PASTIME OF MILLIONS

A WALK THROUGH DAILY is the Filene Basement habit of millions of folks who trade in this unique store annually. Famous for its crowds, it's the meeting place of debs and career girls, working men and millionaires, society women and "the mother of eight" folks in all walks of life walk through Filene's Basement daily. There's never a dull moment in this busy underground beehive of activity for one day it's thousands of hats at $1 for working girls and others and the next it's elegant silver fox jackets at $225 for women of wealth who don't need to economize, and only a "bird's eye" view of these unique bargain lots are advertised. As a depot to thousands of manufacturers and retailers all over the country for their odd lots, seconds, surpluses, there's a constant stream of bargains coming in, going out and it doesn't make any difference whether it's thousands of notions at 4c or shoe-piece sample suits at umpteen dollars, there are hundreds of bargains daily—a veritable treasure hunt and the only way to avoid not missing the choice savings, only a few of which are advertised daily, is to walk through. Frequently what you see here today is gone tomorrow with unheard of LOW prices caused by our one and only automatic plan that makes everything a unique bargain. When you sell about 12,000,000 bargains annually—in such a great diversified variety you are pretty apt to get a little of this and some of that and very often in these days of scarce commodities infrequently small lots that sell on sight, sold to the folks who walk through. For 22 years many of the best bargains in Filene's Basement have NOT been advertised like the present lot of shirts and nylons, also the famous 8th Ave. New York store stock of dress accessories from 19c to 49c that recently attracted a throng that looked like a Sinatra crowd—so if you don't want to miss out make it a habit to WALK THROUGH DAILY.

U. S. Strike Idle Still 770,000

By Associated Press

A state-wide strike of New Jersey utility workers which had threatened to cut gas service was averted today as state officials took over operation of nine gas works of the Public Service Electric & Gas Co.

In another major labor development one of the country's longest labor disputes was settled as AFL Machinists Union and company negotiators reached agreement ending the five months old strike of 3000 workers at the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co's lock factory in Stamford, Ct.

The country's idle because of labor disputes remained at about 770,000, including 400,000 soft coal miners. Contract negotiations in the coal dispute appeared at a deadlock.

Production at the Briggs Manufacturing Co. in Detroit was halted today and 14,500 workers laid off as 113 truck drivers went on strike in a row over seniority.

The walkout also shut down the final assembly line at the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corp. plant because of a lack of bodies.

Alonzo B. Cook Gets Divorce at 79

Former State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook, 79, of Pinckney st., Beacon Hill, was granted an uncontested divorce today from Mrs. Grace Cook of Hancock st. by Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., in Suffolk Probate Court, in ground of desertion.

In 1928 Cook had obtained a Suffolk court decree that he was living apart from her for justifiable cause, in which he alleged desertion.

Cook said they were married in 1920 and the first he knew of trouble was when he saw a newspaper story in 1927 that she was seeking separate support. She left him a short time later and he was given the separation decree a year later.

50 Fliers Shot On Hitler Order

NUERNBERG, April 5 (AP)—Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel told the international military tribunal today he tried in vain to have 50 British aviators returned to the prison camp from which they escaped in 1944, but was shouted down by Hitler, who ordered Heinrich Himmler to take custody of them.

Testifying for the third day in his own defense, the former chief of the German high command solemnly swore it was not until several days later he learned the fliers had been shot.

Keitel said when he learned of the mass escape he intended to delete the incident from his daily report to Hitler, but Himmler arrived and told the story.

Gen. Kells Now Port Director, Lane Assistant

Maj. Gen. Clarence H. Kells, USA, ret., former commandant of the wartime ports of embarkation at Boston, New York and San Francisco, was named today as director of the Port of Boston, Chairman Henry J. Nichols of the Port of Boston Authority announced in brief ceremonies at the Customs House.

Present with Chairman Nichols to welcome Gen. Kells to his new post were other members of the port commission: Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Judge

A. F. Lane Gen. Kells

James R. Nolen of South Hadley, John J. Delmonte of Brookline and L. V. Edgehill of Wellesley.

At the same time, the commissioners announced the appointment of Andrew F. Lane of Newton Highlands, who had been serving as acting director, as assistant to Gen. Kells.

"The appointment of Gen. Kells, with his wide experience in port matters, marks a forward step in the rebuilding of the Port of Boston," Chairman Nichols said.

Nichols reviewed the history of the fight to restore Boston to its former place as one of the nation's outstanding ports, starting with the action of a few public-spirited citizens and culminating in the passage of legislation creating the new Port of Boston Authority and the long-range building program which already is under way.

In taking over the post, Gen. Kells said he felt the Port of Boston had a great future and that he was hopeful his experience heading the nation's three largest embarkation ports would help him in administering Boston's postwar port affairs.

Heavy Penalties In New Atomic Control Bill

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—This country's proposed atomic energy commission would be given sweeping powers to restrict nuclear information under a bill drawn by the Senate's special atomic committee.

This was learned today as members of the committee said they hoped to complete the measure—now in its fourth draft—early next week.

The idea is to give the commission complete authority over all things atomic—ownership, production and transfer of all fissionable materials.

As drawn, the bill would give the five-member body full power to write its own security rules designed to preserve atomic secrets. These would include regulations concerning the dissemination, transmission and communication of any information relating to the new-found power source.

Willful violations could be punished by fines and jail terms up to $20,000 and 20 years, provided the intent was to "injure the United States or . . . to secure an advantage to any foreign nation."

Otherwise the penalties in most instances would range up to $10,000 and five years.

However, for violations relating to a proposed system of required reports on use of atomic materials or for failing to abide by health and safety rules, maximum penalties would be $5000 and two years.

One member of the committee drafting the legislation told a reporter he considered the section dealing with information empowered the commission to impose newspaper and radio censorship beyond any maintained under the voluntary wartime system.

Triplets, Sister Gi's Big Problem

DENVER, April 5 (AP) — A young Denver couple asked juvenile court today to help them find homes for two of their four young daughters for whom the father, an ex-serviceman and store clerk, said he could "see no future."

Three of the children are 14-month-old triplets — Ardith, Marilyn and Evalle du Mars. Their sister, Charlene, is three.

Du Mars and his 24-year-old wife asked the court to arrange for Ardith and Marilyn to be adopted for at least a year.

"I want with all my heart to keep my children, but I'm unable financially to take care of them," said du Mars, who explained his wife physically was unable to care for them.

"I would rather have been shot in the Army," he added, "than go through with this."

Get This Over Son, It's a Joke

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—Westchester County Sheriff Edward J. Ganter today calmed the fears of a woman who received the following letter:

"We recently received an inquiry from a party with a name similar to yours, but without an address, requesting we send them one of our educated apes for a 30-day free trial.

"You ask if our apes can be used in housework, table-waiting, etc. Definitely, yes. They make ideal servants.

"Unless we hear from you to the contrary, we will send your ape together with an instructor in the near future. The instructor will live with you for a week to orientate your ape to his new environment.

The sheriff explained that he and the FBI had investigated and found the letter, and 200 others in a similar vein, was a joke.

Anderson Plans Wheat Price Rise

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) —With exports falling behind goals, the government soon may raise the price of wheat and order a curtailment in the milling of flour for domestic use.

Forecasts that such actions will be taken to feed the hungry abroad were made in government quarters after Agriculture Secretary Anderson announced first quarter shipments of wheat and flour equivalents fell 313,000 tons short of the 3,000,000-ton goal.

Asserting "we are getting to the bottom of the barrel," Anderson said the next 60 to 90 days will be "the most critical in the world food crisis."

Discussions of price increases of as much as 25 cents a bushel were carried on by department grain authorities. Wheat now is bringing farmers a national average price of about $1.58.

An increase would be designed to pull as much grain from farms as possible in 90 days.

Anderson and Commerce Secretary Wallace conferred with President Truman.

Three Feathers Ad Plans Told

Plans for a widespread newspaper advertising campaign for Three Feathers Reserve whisky were outlined to wholesale liquor salesmen from Massachusetts and Rhode Island at the Hotel Statler last night.

The principal speakers, Jerry Giraitis, assistant national sales manager; Ervin Z. Grayson, national advertising manager; Stanley Monasch, national sales promotion manager, and Bob Leob, national director of sales training, revealed the whisky brand will be supported by one of the largest advertising budgets in the history of the industry.

Youmans, "Tea for Two" Composer, Dies in Denver

DENVER, April 5 (AP)—Vincent Youmans, 47, composer of such popular song hits as "Great Day" and the immortal "Tea for Two," died of tuberculosis in a Denver sanitarium today.

Born in New York city, Youmans hit big time in the music world in 1920, when he turned out the score for the musical comedy hit "Two Little Girls in Blue."

He gained lasting fame when he wrote the score for the smash hit "No, No, Nanette." From it emerged two modern-day popular classics—"Tea for Two" and "I Want to Be Happy."

Other compositions include "I Know That You Know," "Sometimes I'm Happy," "Without a Song," "More Than You Know," "Time on My Hands," "Drums in My Heart" and Youman's own favorite, the beautiful ballad, "Through the Years."

He also wrote music for the motion picture, "Flying Down to Rio."

Youmans married Anne Varley, a dancer in one of his productions, in 1927. The marriage ended in divorce in 1933 and two years later he married Mildred Boots, a "Follies" girl.

Twins, Vincent and Cecily, were born of his first marriage.

Youmans was stricken with tuberculosis several years ago and retired in 1933. He came back in 1944, however, to produce "Vincent Youmans' Ballet Revue."

Truman to Tell Need of Defense

WASHINGTON, April 5 (INS)—President Truman will advocate a strong national defense program and a vigorous foreign policy in a speech scheduled for Soldier Field, Chicago, tomorrow.

Mr. Truman, Gen. Eisenhower and other leaders will leave Washington by train late today for Chicago's Army day.

In his speech the President will stress foreign policy and need for an armed force capable of backing it up to prevent another world conflict.

The 25-minute speech was understood to be one of Truman's most important since he took office at the death of President Roosevelt.

Time Here to Begin Work On Lawn for Best Results

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Boston American, April 5—19

While home gardeners are waiting for proper planting conditions, they should devote their time right now to working on their lawns, to give the grass an extra start before the annual crop of weeds and crab grass gets too heavy.

The following suggestions will help most owners: 1—Rake the lawn with a light wooden rake or bamboo rake to remove dead grass, weeds and leaves. 2—Apply complete fertilizer and bone meal at the rate of three pounds per 100 square feet. 3—Check lawn for bare spots and if large areas are found rake over with an iron rake and sow in a mixture of good lawn seed. Small areas six to eight inches in diameter will fill in without seeding. 4—Do not attempt to burn over the lawn as this destroys valuable organic matter which is needed.

If soil tests show a need for lime apply broadcast and rake it in.

If lawns are uneven, the low spots can be filled in by spreading on a light application of screened loam. The grass will grow up through it and be in better condition.

In applying fertilizer to the lawn spread in broadcast as evenly as possible. Regular garden fertilizer such as 5-8-7 will give good results.

Many of the more experienced gardeners are planning to grow their own plants. While we do not feel that this practice is always advisable, it does give a lot of satisfaction.

At this time of the year the cool weather crops such as cabbage, lettuce and broccoli can be grown without extra heat. Tomatoes, egg plant and peppers will not do well unless bottom heat is available. The best sources of heat for small units are either horse manure placed in the pit or electric heating units which can be purchased at the larger garden supply houses.

Orators Preparing For Boston Finals

By BERT FORD

Two colleges and a high school in the Boston area announced their intramural winners today, following completion of intramural tests in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers national Oratorical Contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States." These winners will be eligible to compete in the Boston finals next Wednesday evening in Faneuil Hall.

The champion at Staley College of the Spoken Word is a World War II veteran—one of three veterans to whom the subject of Andrew Jackson, the fighting warrior and constructive President, has proved an inspiration.

He is William A. Burke, 26, of Mohan st., Everett, who interrupted his education at Staley to enlist in the Army Air Corps on Jan. 2, 1943. He was graduated from Army Administration School, Louisiana State University, and served 19 months overseas as station personnel sergeant-major with the 452d Bombardment Group, Eighth Air Force. He was awarded the Good Conduct Medal and the ETO ribbon with six battle stars.

Discharged last September, he re-entered Staley College to complete his education under the GI Bill of Rights. He has participated in various public debates, and is active in the college debating society.

Salem Teachers' College announces as its intramural winner Miss Assunta Frances Vezzella, a junior. The champion at Boston Trade School is Robert A. Harris, 17, of Wilmington, a senior.

Preparations for the Boston finals in Faneuil Hall on April 10 are being completed, and arrangements are under supervision of the chairman, Hon. Leo P. Doherty. A program of entertainment has been arranged, and the judges' list completed, and also the order in which the young orators will speak.

The public is invited to these finals, the high school group to be held at 2 p. m., and the college group at 8 p. m.

Both eastern zone and national finals will be held at Boston Latin School, the zone finals on April 24, the national finals on May 2. There will be a varied program of entertainment, with music by Ruby Newman's band and musical arrangements by Sammy Elsen.

These finals are open to the public, and tickets have been issued because of the limited capacity of the school auditorium. These tickets may be obtained by application to Oratory Editor, Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Winners in the Boston finals will be eligible for both zone and national finals, the awards totaling $25,000

India Stops Thorium Shipments to U. S.

NEW DELHI, April 5 (AP)—Sir C. P. Ramaswami Aiyer, prime minister of the Indian State of Travancore, said today the shipment annually to America of 250,000 tons of thorium-bearing sand had been discontinued, and that American firms had been informed they must process the sand in Travancore.

Thorium, now considered valuable because of its use in atomic energy research, had been employed in the U. S. to make paints for ships and to make plastics.

U. S. Gets Iceland Bases, Say Reds

MOSCOW, April 5 (AP)—Izvestia said today the United States command in Iceland is concluding leases and agreements with Icelandic farmers concerning air and naval bases.

"Iceland's public is quite disturbed over the prospect of formation of Iceland of permanent bases," the government newspaper's commentator said, "inasmuch as they feel as the Danish newspaper Politiken wrote that 'their neutrality will not be built at a low price.'

"That American troops do not intend to leave Iceland soon may be seen in the fact the American command is concluding agreements about leasing land directly with the farmers at high prices on condition the question of rent will not be made public."

KEEP NATION STRONG

TWO PHASES of our future national defense have reached a stage calling for affirmative action in Congress, and the action has NOT been forthcoming.

The Navy has proposed a plan to keep an invincible fleet in both the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, with adequate reserve forces.

Airplane carriers and supporting land bases will comprise the fighting backbone of this mobile floating armada.

To man and support the establishment, the Navy Department has asked for a total personnel of 500,000 men, and an appropriation of $6,325,000,000.

Both requests were commendably reasonable, in view of the staggering costs of World War II, which were solely due to our disgraceful unpreparedness before Pearl Harbor.

But, by an arbitrary, unpatriotic and indefensible action in the Bureau of the Budget—without consulting the naval authorities—$2,100,000,000 was lopped off the naval request, and President Truman sent to Congress a Navy budget request for only $4,222,000,000.

This sabotaging procedure would reduce the prospective naval force to 437,000 men, and would compel the irrational decommissioning of a large part of the fleets, in itself an item of large monetary expense.

Furthermore, by a previous ill-considered measure, the Senate had gone on record for a naval force of no more than 300,000 men, FAR TOO FEW FOR OUR NATIONAL SAFETY AND FOR THE EFFECTIVE CONDUCT OF OUR FLOATING FORTRESSES.

FORTUNATELY for America, the House Naval Affairs Committee is making a valiant fight to give the Navy what it needs, and the Senate should "go along" with the House in this respect.

Meanwhile, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has formulated a research policy for aviation which needs to be welded into our defense plans.

THE RELATIVELY SMALL APPROPRIATION NEEDED FOR AVIATION RESEARCH, AS WELL AS THE CONSIDERABLY LARGER APPROPRIATIONS NECESSARY FOR MAINTENANCE OF OUR PROJECTED AIR AND NAVAL DEFENSE, MUST BE PROVIDED BY CONGRESS.

Such action as the Bureau of the Budget took to cripple the naval defense plan must not be permitted to prevail, and no similar action adverse to our air defense must be allowed.

This country cannot afford another three-hundred-billion-dollar war.

The only assurance against such a war is in COMPLETE PREPAREDNESS, and the requisite cost of full preparedness is niggardly beside the waste and the afflictions of interoceanic conflict.

ANOTHER TAX!

IT IS almost axiomatic that a temporary tax eventually becomes a permanent tax. This evolution has occurred many times in Massachusetts, and now it is occurring again.

Before the Legislative Committee on Taxation are three bills to increase the levy on gasoline.

Two of them propose an outright assessment of four cents per gallon.

The other, a somewhat milder measure, suggests that the "temporary" one-cent tax, which was adopted fourteen years ago, should be continued and made perpetual.

Needlessly burdening motorists is NOT THE WAY to encourage business and employment or to promote the growth and expansion of rural areas.

Senators and Representatives would do well to face the fact that automobile owners are already paying much more than their proper share of the cost of government.

They need and expect some kind of relief, and are fully justified when they demand it.

Come back to me in dreams
That I may give
Pulse for pulse, breath for breath:
Speak low, lean low,
As long ago, My Love,
How long ago.

—CHRISTINA ROSSETI.

LAST NIGHT in the little theater in our neighborhood, where we view pictures we have missed, my girl friend and I saw "Week-End at the Waldorf." We both liked it. Van Johnson contributed an excellent performance to this opus. I have no quarrel with the younger feminine set for selecting Van as one of their more important idols. On the contrary, it appears an indication of their good judgment. With one exception, the screen idols of the youthful feminine fans of the present are definitely superior as to looks, character, ability and intelligence to those their mothers put on pedestals 20 years ago. If you are a teen-ager, ask your mother who was her big moment among film stars when she was between the ages of 15 and 19.

HOSIERY HUNTERS: Desperate nylon hosiery hunters continue to besiege this department for assistance and information. "If, as stated in your column, so many million pairs of nylon stockings are being manufactured in the United States, where do they all go?" asks a young business woman of San Francisco, who says the lack of nylons is undermining her morale. Well, as previously stated, some women are getting more than their share. Also, quantities of nylons are being shipped to foreign countries, where their sale is not regulated by price ceilings. In Palestine nylons sell for $16 a pair. Equally high prices prevail in Belgium, France, Egypt and Sweden. To take advantage of this situation, some United States manufacturers are shipping nylons abroad by air express.

SIDELIGHTS: Remember Agnes Ayres with Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik"? Agnes was a Chicago girl. Lorado Taft used her for the model of youth for his monument in Washington Park, Chicago . . . Discussing peculiar names given racehorses, a Bostonian calls my attention to one called Snicklefritz. That's a terrible name to wish on a defenseless animal. However, it is not so bad as Droopsnoop which is the name another horse has to race through life with.

Agnes Ayres

PASSING BY: Chester Morris. Well-known thespian. A member in good standing of the I Was Born in Manhattan Club. Made his stage debut with Lionel Barrymore in "The Copperhead." Has been in films about 15 years. Is quite a student of Horses & Women.

Chester Morris

HORSES & WOMEN: "Will She Turn Heads at 37?" Noted that line in a recent magazine advertisement. The man who wrote it understands women. He realizes every female under 50 is at heart a whistle girl. As long as the average woman notices a passing gentleman casting a sly look of admiration at her she is happy. If she inspires a gentleman to turn around and take another look, she is very happy. And, of course, when she ceases to have such experiences she is depressed. She feels the old rocking chair is beckoning to her. I don't know what the percentage is of women who are still "turning heads" at 37. However, I did receive a communication from a Chicago subscriber who said: "I am 43 and a grandmother, but I look about 2½ and am still a whistle girl."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Do you remember Sparrow, the Mad Juggler, in vaudeville? A—Certainly. I also remember Bert Fitzgibbons, the Daffy Dill . . . Q—One of your statuesque subscribers expressed the hope some day she would meet a man tall enough to kiss her goodnight while she was standing on tiptoes. I am 5 feet, 11 inches tall and have a similar hope. Have you any suggestions? A—About all I can suggest is to try to meet some basketball centers. As for example, Bob "Foothills" Kurland of Oklahoma A. & M. He is 7 feet tall. In the meanwhile, it is not absolutely necessary to go without the "tiptoes" kiss. You could keep a soap-box by your front door or garden gate for average-sized men to stand on while saying goodnight.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: It has been claimed the healthiest babies are born under the signs of Leo and Virgo. That is, such children are most likely to survive the first year and be unusually healthy throughout their infancy.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

EVERY MORNING'S mail brings a huge appeal for charitable contributions. All the appeals are urgent. Everything is urgent these days. Nothing can wait for tomorrow.

The appeals are usually printed on expensive paper, carefully designed, well-written and represent costly effort. Somebody gets employment doing that.

The appeals come from organizations seeking aid for the sick, the hungry, the displaced, the wounded, the diseased, the distressed; but they also come from political movements, musical organizations, art museums, educational activities, aid to every country on earth, pro-this, anti-that.

It is a fierce competition.

There is only so much money to give, even if one stretches the dollar further than seems possible.

What with high taxes and the high cost of living, it becomes almost impossible to save and even if one uses charity brusquely as an income tax deduction, it is increasingly difficult to give a tithe to good works—as important as good works are for the salvation of one's soul.

I must say that I am not influenced by fancy printing. If a charitable organization has that much to spend on printing, it has too much cash on hand to suit me. Also drives bore me. I never give during a drive.

I send my charitable checks irrespective of drives, because I hate to be driven or even cajoled. I like to give for the joy of giving, not because someone has embarrassed me in public.

Furthermore, I often check on the finances of a charity and if the reserves are large, I do not give. Charities do not need reserves. I say that categorically and if any one disagrees with me, let him give accordingly.

Some of the very urgent appeals are not urgent at all. What they say must be done this year can just as well be done another year.

Except for hospitals, I will not contribute to any building fund. That can wait. In fact, no money raised for non-essential buildings is likely to be spent this year. Why not collect the money when building materials become available for luxuries?

Today, we need that material for homes. I also will not contribute to any luxury funds, like fancy music or fancy art. All that can wait.

The human race is faced by famine and its consequences. That comes first. Food for the starving; milk and oranges for babies and mothers—that comes first.

Therefore, funds designed to save life, to help the distressed, to care for the hungry, to house the homeless, to clothe the dispossessed, hold a high priority on my charity.

Before I can contribute to anything fancy, I want to make sure that I have given to calories and vitamins.

NEXT ON MY LIST is health, and I am very choosey about that. Hospitals should be first on this list because there is in this country and in all the world a shortage of hospitals and hospital beds and clinical facilities and there is never enough money for medical research.

The competition for the dollar among special health agencies is most unfortunate.

Some have too much money—more than they can spend; others have too little.

Certainly, heart illnesses and cancer research should be way up on anyone's list, but it would be preferable if all these health organizations pooled their resources and their money-raising efforts.

It is a pity that the most important appeals in the health field receive so little while the better advertised and publicized receive too much.

Nevertheless, this is truly an urgent field for good works.

I WAS ONCE showing Charles A. Beard the buildings of the University of Nanking and I could see that he was not impressed by their magnificence.

He asked what were the salaries of the teachers.

When he was told, he said: "Millions for bricks, few dollars for brains."

So it is with all these appeals for buildings. With 20,000,000 dying from starvation in Europe, HOW CAN ANYONE THINK OF SPENDING HIS SURPLUS ON STONE?

When millions are without bread, WHO CAN CARE ABOUT MAUSOLEUMS OF MARBLE?

Only that is urgent which cannot be postponed. Hunger and death stalk the world, taking their victims of the horrors of an era of man's inhumanity to man.

Westbrook Pegler Is Now on Vacation

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 5—Stirling Hayden has been making daily trips to San Pedro to try to buy a boat, but without any success. He thought he would buy one and live there when he found it easier to locate a green elephant than a small house.

But the boats are too expensive, so now he is again looking for a place to live. Stirling is very eager to be at work, and he was at Paramount again yesterday. He will be co-starred with Paulette Goddard in "The Vixen," which Sol Siegel is getting ready to put on the screen. Whether he will do another story first, I don't know, but he will eventually co-star in "The Vixen," which is based on a story written by Dr. A. J. Cronin. I was interested to hear that it's one of Cronin's earlier stories.

Stirling Hayden

THE MYSTERY of what happened to Sally Benson, author of "Junior Miss" and many other hit plays, has been solved. Sally, who was writing "Home Stretch" for 20th Century-Fox, disappeared into thin air. When someone went to look for her, she was gone. She took a plane out of here Sunday night and was so ill when she got to Salt Lake City, they had to take her off the plane. At first, it looked as if she had just taken French leave and was bored with the whole thing, but sifted down, it seems she's threatened with a serious nervous breakdown. Maybe Sally's been working too hard.

THE GAL with the golden voice, my friend Ilona Massey—and I might add, the gal with the so pretty face—has been given a new contract at M-G-M and will now be entitled to the word "star." One of her coming pictures will be the story of the great composer Mozart which Dr. Marcel Frimm is adapting. How well I remember visiting Salzburg before the war and seeing the house where Mozart lived, his piano and all the mementoes which th people in the town Max Reinhardt made so famous, cherish.

WHEN BARBARA NUGENT came out from Bryn Mawr to spend her Easter vacation with her father, Elliott Nugent, she didn't dream she would wind up doing a stint with Bing Crosby in "Welcome Stranger." Elliott is directing the picture and he told Bing, the other day, they needed a young co-ed for a sequence. "Well," said Der Bingle, "You've got a co-ed at home, haven't you? How about her?" The role is so important that Nugent couldn't have trusted it to an amateur, but Barbara, who is 18, has had experience in summer stock, even though this marks her debut before the cameras.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: In Hollywood, where divorced wives and husbands become the best of friends and act as if nothing happened, it is very interesting to know Red Skelton is simply crazy about Frank Borzage, the director, who married Edna Skelton, Red's first wife. You often see a foursome of Red and his bride and Frank and his bride, but the thing that is most amusing is Red is practically Frank's best press agent for his latest picture, "I've Always Loved You." He's plugged it on his radio show and tells everyone who asks him that it's the swellest picture.

MY FRIEND, the animal trainer, Curley Twiford, tells me he and Jimmy, the raven, have had so much publicity since appearing on my radio show and being written up in the Sunday paper—they have had a fabulous offer. Curley, Jimmy, his pet cougar and all the beetles who "emote" on the screen, have been offered $1500 a week for a six months tour around the country. As Jimmy, the raven, says: "That ain't bird seed!" Twiford, however, has most of his trained pets working in "Forever Amber" at this writing and he will wait until this movie is finished before embarking on the tour of gold.

REMEMBER, several months ago I told you Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay were working a sequel to "Life With Father"—the story of the same family moved up about five years, and appropriately titled "Life With Mother." Well, it is completed now and will probably go on Broadway sometime next year. The material was taken from anecdotes in Clarence Day's book which were not used in "Life With Father." The cast will be the same with the exception of the maids, who by this time would have wilted under father's wrath.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The William Wylers welcomed William Wyler, Jr., early this morning, and are they happy. They have two little girls and this is the first boy; Larry Crosby was taken to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Tuesday night with a heart attack; one of my spies reports Orson Welles is now telephoning Rita Hayworth on the set in a new effort to make up—but Rita no can do. Most of her dinner dates are with Jimmy Stewart. They are an awfully cute pair; Hoot Gibson is opening a night spot in Las Vegas which seems to be crowded with Hollywood people who have plans one way or another. Fred Perry, the tennis champ, is now the "pro" at the Nevada Biltmore there; Irene Selznick celebrated her birthday with a luncheon given by the town's most famous hosts, Eddy Duchin, Jimmy Stewart, Johnny McLain and Cary Grant. Cary sent out and got Irene a cute little nosegay; Cobina Wright talking to Lady Elsie Mendl, said she was broke. "All right," said Elsie, "I'll give you $1000 for your dog." "Oh, I'm not that broke," said Cobina. "There isn't enough money in all Hollywood to buy her!" That's the singing dog.

MY TYPEWRITER must have slipped a couple of dozen keys when I said it was Shirley Ballard, of the Goldwyn Girls, who was expecting the stork. I meant someone else—for Shirley has gone on her glamorous way to New York with the other honeys to plug "The Kid From Brooklyn"; Lee Bowman gets the role with Evelyn Keyes and Ann Miller in "Rio" in the part originally announced for Melvyn Douglas; a couple of Hollywood gents owe Roy Del Ruth a vote of thanks. Roy's cameraman has been photographing New York night spots for background for "It Happened on Fifth Avenue" and when the reels were shipped out here, Del Ruth spotted two very prominent citizens of our town who were not with the citizens they are married to! So the whole thing has been done over again. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW YORK, April 5—Times Square Trivia: Mayor O'Dwyer's cold shoulder to the gambling boys has spoiled the season for one of the biggest gambling syndicates ever formed. The boys were planning to make a fabulous offer for the Charles Schwab mansion on Riverside Drive, and convert it into the town's most lush roulette den . . . Robert Q. Lewis, the disc jockey, is the object of a big "crush." The lass, daughter of a very famous Washingtonian, writes to him every day . . . When Robert Wilder, author of "Flamingo Road," received word from his accountant that he owed the government $25,000 income tax, he was engaged in scrubbing the bathroom floor—that's how hard it is to get servants. WASHINGTON, April 5—As a taxpayer and citizen with all the rights of free speech I desire to come out flatly at this time against that false friend of mankind, the smiling enemy in our midst—spring!

Spring, oh spring, the season vernal,
Why are you so dashed infernal?

Everybody tries to be lyrical this time of year but, with few exceptions, everybody feels lousy. Coughs, colds and about every ailment known to man are rampant.

This blessed season equinoctial
Is when you get the chickenpoctial.

All around us people are sniffling and looking miserable. The long, sad kissers around this office are enough to make you go out and commit suicide. Resistance is at its lowest.

Spring with its buds and leafy greenery
Is the toughest time on your hygienery.

Along about this time every year you begin to believe the human race is too delicate to survive much longer. It is very depressing.

Daffodils in golds and yellows
And folks with wheezes in their bellows.

IT MAY BE that spring picks me out for a particular victim. I go all winter feeling swell, with never a pain or an ache, except those provided by some of our bureaucrats. But comes spring and I get a sore throat, the shakes, and a general lassitude which makes me feel as if my spine somehow was missing. I want to slouch over in apathetic misery. I feel the victim of rank discrimination.

The time they give me pills and nostrums
While others watch the cherry blosstrums.

Folks go rhapsodical about the bursting buds and flowers. These people are definitely a menace, particularly if they are in automobiles. They get so engrossed pointing out the beautiful awakening of nature they don't watch where they're going.

The blue skies beckon overhead
And while they beckon—crash—you're dead!

Then there is a lot of loose talk about the little birds and bees. Folks get tearful about the return of the robin.

But I ain't sobbin'
For no robin.

LOOK WHAT this overrated season does to people. Inasmuch as OPA plays a large part in ruling our lives, I wanted to find out what position it is taking on spring. So I called up OPA (Republic 7500) and asked for Mr. Paul Porter, the administrator. This is no kidding—the switchboard admitted she had heard of the fellow vaguely.

I had to get the extension from Information (Ext. 5586, it turned out to be) and what do you suppose I learned?

That the OPA boss had become so artificially stimulated by the idea of spring he went to the country home of Deputy Administrator Robert R. R. Brooks and wrenched his leg trying to play soft ball.

Mr. Porter reported from his bedside that his leg is out like a balloon, adding:

"This inflation is a pain in the ankle."

Asked how the accident had occurred, he said solemnly:

"You may say for publication that the administrator of OPA does not know second base from a hole in the ground."

So how can life be bright and gay
When spring does this to the OPA?

MAYBE POETS are immune to spring ailments. Through the ages they have plugged the season for all they were worth. From the way they talk you would think they were touting a hot horse.

James Thomson burbled: "Come gentle spring! Eternal mildness! Come." Shelley mumbled something about: "If winter comes, can spring be far behind"; and Algernon Charles Swinburne (Hiya Algy, what's cooking?) yammered: "When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces," possibly under the delusion that he was at the dog races.

I AM OFFERING, free, a beautiful line about spring to the British delegates to the UN conference:

"Oh to be in England now that Gromkyo is here!"

Boston After Dark

PEGGY FRENCH once played in a show that used a magician . . . This magician had some pigeons for tricks, but these were difficult pigeons to handle . . . At the Amsterdam Theater in New York one night, the entire covey of the flighty birds eluded their magician-master's control, and away it flew.

MOST OF THEM made for the audience, and if there is anything to the legend that pigeons have in them the gift to bestow luck on poor groundlings who happen to be immediately below their course of flight, then many of the audience—including a couple of critics—went home lucky that night . . . One of the birds hovered about the stage, however, and as it happened, the pert and pretty little young actress was playing a scene which called for her to look toward the ceiling . . . Whammo! . . . Pretty Peggy got an eyeful of good luck.

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN a disrupting incident in the even tenor of almost any good actor's performance . . . Miss French showed her merit as a trouper by being neither ruffled nor disheartened . . . Daintily transferring the good-luck missive that had dropped from above to a kerchief, Miss French, who is currently playing the siren's role in "The Voice of the Turtle," turned toward the audience and declared: "Please be advised that these pigeons are NOT good for eating. If they were, the cluck that owns them would have had enough nourishment to give him strength to keep them where they belong."

THE MAGICIAN was fired . . . The show closed the next week . . . Peggy's pungent and bib speech had won her a quick reputation as a wit, although she loathes females with vipers' tongues and in short order she was cast in "You Can't Take It With You" . . . "Geo. Washington Slept Here" gave Miss French another break along her smoothing road to success . . . Then came a stint opposite Billy Gaxton in "Keep 'Em Laughing" and a leading role in the Chicago company of "Doughgirls."

MISS FRENCH MERITS a column or two of mention because she has been here so long that folks are nodding to her on the street, under the impression that she is a neighbor. . . . "Voice of the Turtle" has been in our midst since Christmas Night . . . It will run for many weeks more, and may even break the long-run record held (I think) by the farce "Little Accident," in which Tommy Mitchell, who helped write that play, starred.

THE "FRENCH KIDS"—as Broadway affectionately knows Peggy and her sister, Eleanor—come of a show-business family . . . Ward French, their father, is a famous concert manager, and rules the destinies of so glamorous a trio as Yehudi Menuhin, Nino Martinelli and Lily Pons (as well as a hundred others) . . . He met Mrs. French, the girls' mother, when she played his accompaniment at a concert at the Ann Arbor Festival, a Michigan social event which shows off the best talent of the U. of Michigan where Virginia Collier (Mrs. French) matriculated, and of schools like Albion College, where Mr. French studied, played piano, acted, and sang. . . . They were married soon after.

BOSTON SAW ELEANOR FRENCH a few years ago at one of the hotel supper clubs. (She should be an ideal booking, incidentally, for the Copley Plaza's Oval Room or as an act to co-feature with Ranny Weeks' orchestra at the swank new Balinese Room) . . . Such a booking for Eleanor would be a fortuitous event in both French girls' lives . . . "We adore one another," said Peggy . . . As a matter of fact, the devotion of these two talented performers is legendary . . . "I wish one of us would reach real stardom—preferably Eleanor—just to prove that two sisters can get along beautifully even if one outshines the other" . . . Peggy may have been thinking of the Bennett Sisters, the Olivia De Haviland-Joan Fontaine sisterly feud, the Gypsy Rose Lee-June Havoc sistership and others.

FROM PRETTY PEGGY this department learned something that may be of interest to other young actresses temporarily in Boston . . . Peggy's hobby is sewing . . . Twice or thrice a week, she visits the salesroom of a sewing-machine firm, hires herself a machine and stitches and stitches for hours

B. U. Makes Room For New Students

President Daniel L. Marsh announced today trustees of Boston University had authorized opening of a new department—the general college—which will accept students for entrance in September, 1946.

The new department will be located in the university's Horace Mann building. It offers a two-year curriculum leading to a degree of associate in arts.

Mother Denies 2 Gas Deaths Guilt

In a low but firm voice, Mrs. Beatrice Deschenes, young Lowell mother, pleaded not guilty in Middlesex Superior Court today to indictments charging her with murder of her two children by illuminating gas last month. Judge Allan T. Buttrick ordered her held without bail and no date was set for trial.

Mrs. Deschenes stood at the bar with downcast eyes and bit her lips nervously as Clerk Fred Davis read the indictments accusing her in the deaths of her son, Francis, 7, and her daughter, Jacqueline, 8.

The mother and her two children were found unconscious in the kitchen of their Lowell apartmen March 18 by her husband, Paul. Gas was pourir.; from four open jets in the kitchen stove. All three were taken to the hospital, where Francis died next day. His sister succumbed two days later. Mrs. Deschenes recovered after being hospitalized two weeks.

Smart Set Opera a Fashion Show

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTONIANS who keep their most special gowns, jewels and furs for the Opera sported them last evening when the Metropolitan Opera Company opened its spring season at Boston Opera House. And the opening lived up to its reputation of being the greatest fashion show of the year.

Jewels that are seldom seen on any other occasion flashed above lavish gowns of gleaming satin, filmy tulle or rich brocade. Lush flower corsages were of orchids in every shade from deep purple to palest yellow, frilly red camellias or delicate white lilies fashioned into coronets. In contrast to wartime opera seasons hardly a uniform was to be seen and many men more accustomed to the drone of bombers or whistling bullets were back with their families in the gold and scarlet Opera House enjoying the melodic music of Wagner's Tannhaeuser.

Mrs. Robert Henderson

General Sherman Miles, in civilian clothes, escorted his petite and fashionable wife who wore an ermine coat over her black satin gown. Nathaniel Clark of Dover, former Commander in the Navy, attended his first peacetime opera with Mrs. Clark (Jane Frost) in a lovely royal blue satin with the new draped skirt. During intermission they chatted outside their box with Mrs. Robert Herrick and Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes, Jr., the latter most attractive in pale gray lace and tulle with diamond buttons down the front and a long scarf of raspberry tulle.

Regular opera first nighters were two Bay State ex-Governors, Alvan T. Fuller and Frank G. Allen who had a box with their wives and the Fullers' daughters, Mrs. Robert Henderson and Mrs. George Bottomley. Mary Henderson contrasted her deep gold faille gown with a hair ornament of orange lilies and her sister Lydia wore one of the evening's most beautiful necklaces of diamonds and emeralds with her black lace gown. Mrs. Fuller's black crepe had epaulettes of ruffled violet organdie and Mrs. Allen chose black with a sparkling diamond necklace and ermine cape.

Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard wore yellow orchids on the shoulder of her spring-like gown fashioned with a yellow tulle skirt and fitted navy linen bodice. With her white fox cape Mrs. Harold G. Kern wore an exquisite gown made entirely of white and silver sequins and another fluffy fox cape was that of Mrs Charles Donovan which topped a white net and lace gown and diamond necklace. Creamy pearls in necklace, earrings and hair ornaments, accented Mrs. Charles Bacon's black satin. She and Mr. Bacon strolled at intermission and chatted with their neighbors Mr. and Mrs. John Moseley Abbot, the latter blonde and pretty in peacock satin with a diamond sunburst brooch.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wheeler were others in the fashionable throng as were Mr. and Mrs. Gelston King entertaining the Frederick Whitesides in their box party, Mrs. King in brown lace with an exquisite topaz necklace; Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Olsen on from Washington to join the box party of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Tosi; Mr. and Mrs. William Endicott 2d. Mrs. George A. Schofield Jr., and Mrs, Joseph W. Epply Jr., who came from Ipswich for the evening, Mrs. Arthur Pearson with Miss Nella Pearson, Mrs. Hayward, her daughter Mrs. Hayward Sanders in a Frenchy combination of taupe, pink and blue crepe, Mr. and Mrs. Marland Hobbs and Dagmar Pierce with scarlet carnations on her filmy black lace.

Woman Garroted in Farm Mystery

WAYNESBORO, Pa., April 5 (P)—Apparently garroted, the nude body of a brown-haired woman was found in brush beside a mountain road 20 miles from town.

State police headed a hunt for her slayer today as a steady stream of farm folk filed into an undertaking establishment in attempts to identify her.

Dist. Atty. Leroy S. Maxwell said he believed the woman, about 30 and weighing 125 pounds, was strangled with a wire rope, though none was found.

A faded blue coat on a tree attracted a farmer Martin Bensshoff, to the spot about 100 yards from his home yesterday. The body bore numerous cuts and scratches. There was a distinct scar at the outside corner of the left eye.

Circus at N. Y. Opening Hits New High in Acts, Blurbs

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—The circus opened its 1946 season in prewar style last night and for 3½ hours 14,500 spectators in Madison Square Garden watched talented performances that almost warranted the glittering superlatives of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey press corps.

The trained seals were "self-applauding comedians from the briny deep with equilibristic prowess unlimited."

The acrobatic acts were "an incomparable plethora of globally celebrated acrobatic prodigies, including three sensation troupes making their American debut."

The white-faced, red-nosed clowns were "a futilitarian tidal wave sweeping the arena with heroic nonsense in a howling hurricane of histrionic hilarity."

The flying trapeze acts, "tapestry hitherto conceived only in flights of purest fancy."

There were dancing telephants in blue satin dresses, a pageant of childhood toys come to life, acrobatics on horseback, the incomparable Wallendas of the high-wire and scores of beautiful girls.

Only Gargantua the Great, "most terrifying animal in captivity," seemed mild and meek.

The giant gorilla paced his cage and looked wistfully at his bride, Toto, separated from him by bars. He stuck his fingers through to try to reach her. Toto reclined in a Cleopatra attitude on one elbow, and ignored him.

The famed Otaris of the flying trapeze returned. Five brothers were overseas during the war. Two were wounded and one was killed on D-Day. But the act was back—this time headed by Frank, their 67-year-old father, who replaced the son killed.

"Longer Look" for Sophisticates—Patric

Straight Skirt Smartness

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE GREEKS had a word for it . . . but Patric has the clothes for it. For what? For the figure that is slim, subtle and insinuating. And his "modern Greek goddess" shoulder draping and sleeve expression on sleek, smooth, black dining-out dresses prove it.

Definitely pledged in creative thought and talent to the youthfully sophisticated character in clothes . . . Patric, designer for the Anna Miller collections, is one man who frankly admits his fondness for draping the "smart" woman . . . the so-called weaker of the species who takes a strong-arm view of figure and fashion.

His credo focuses on the theory that women should select fashions that are simple, smart, glamorous and strictly feminine. He firmly believes that a slender, well-groomed figure is pre-requisite for a chic, striking silhouette. And don't we all? That's why he likes to design for the clothes-conscious gal.

He takes full cognizance of the new rounded hip and fuller skirt silhouette with its Victorian air as fashion beauty for the very young woman . . . but he still prefers the longer torso look with the perfectly straight skirt for the more worldly-wise damsel.

Last spring it was the Eisenhower jacket, which inspired Patric to launch a hit fashion. This spring, it's the dashing Beau Brummel dandyism that engages him. He takes very feminine dresses, gives them oversized, puffed sleeves and lingerie necklines and makes them as alluring as a brief swim suit.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Joset Walker)

LONG TORSO costume . . . which Patric prefers for the feminine sophisticate . . . combines a two-piece dress and jacket in black wool . . . color-contrasted with a hip-length print blouse in striped beige, shocking and blue fire-sparking profusion. Slim skirt has deep tuck midway to hem for the touch that intrigues.

THE TIME has come when smart women are again becoming clothes-conscious. A chic woman's most important spring outfit is a nice looking dressmaker suit with a soft, feminine look.

In my opinion these are (1) short boleros with flared skirts and soft-looking shirt-maker blouses; (2) hip-length fitted jackets with straight skirt lines, drapy-looking blouses in bright colors or prints which have the tendency to match the jacket linings; (3) two-piece suits in tweed or mannish-looking materials done very femininely with white pique or linen neck touches.

What I think is new is (1) the rounded hip silhouette and the fuller skirt with the Victorian air for the very young woman. But I still prefer the longer torso look with the perfectly straight skirt for the more sophisticated woman. (2) The Beau Brummel dandy silhouette, one of my new features; very feminine dresses with oversized puffed sleeves having lingerie necklines and soft bows of pastel-colored satin ribbons or suits in contrasting colors with old-fashioned mannish weskits and feminine blouses.

My short dinner and dining-out dresses are definitely black.

Henry H. Patric

34 Designers Dress You for Spring

BEAU BRUMMEL sleeves . . . oversized and puffed . . . Patric's expressed "dandyism" for the very feminine dress . . . He features this black crepe daytime frock with interesting lingerie trim. The vestee is of white lace . . . but the tiny pearl buttons check a bow tie of pastel pink satin ribbon . . . all part of tantalizing neck touches.

DINING OUT or dressup dress . . . good for the cocktail hour or the "important" date . . . a slim-skirted black crepe attraction . . . has one side of the surplice bodice extended and shirred into a peplum pouff just below the waist in Patric's fondness for the very draped shoulder look and counter-balanced silhouette. Definitely black and definitely longer skirted . . . its only relief which Patric sponsors are jewelled clips on the peplum and a choker and earrings set. For the siren? We'll say!

Fast-Day Dinner Main Dish

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

MACARONI-AND-CHEESE is a classic favorite the year round. But during Lent the happy combination really takes the spotlight as main dish at many a delicious fast-day dinner.

MACARONI BEEHIVE

1 pkg. macaroni
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. flour 1½ cups milk
1 tsp. salt Few grains pepper
1½ cups grated American cheese 3 eggs
¼ cup chopped pimiento

Cook the unbroken macaroni in boiling water until tender. Drain on absorbent paper. Butter a baking dish and line with strips of macaroni coiled around the sides. Melt the butter in a double boiler, add flour and mix well. Add milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add salt, pepper and cheese and then stir until the cheese is melted. Beat the eggs slightly and add the hot mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Add the remainder of the macaroni cut in ¾ inch pieces, and the pimiento. Pour into the lined baking dish and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 50 to 60 minutes or until set. Unmold. Serve with tomato sauce, if desired.

Complexion Can Bloom

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

THERE'S A NEW LOOK to every season . . . not only in fashions and hairdos . . . but in your makeup as well. While a fair, winter-white complexion may be flattering with furs and dark clothes . . . it certainly is not attractive for spring . . . spring, beautiful spring . . . and where is it?

But prepare for it, we must. Now's the time to ready the complexion to bloom as brightly as sun-kissed flowers. To create that sunny, outdoor look of traditional spring . . . use a shade of face-powder that "color-lights" your skin.

With one application . . . this face powder helps camouflage and soften fine lines . . . brightens a dull drab skin and creates a new and prettier you. Delicately blended to flatter fair and medium skintones.

Incidentally . . . this face powder is the perfect complement to this season's new fashion colors . . . those subtle shades ranging from the light, creamy tones to the pale, soft chocolate of Balenciaga brown.

For the name of this new zinnia-shade face powder, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

About Difference in Faith

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My son was recently married to a very sweet girl whose home is in the West, where he met her while in the service. At first her parents were opposed to the marriage because of the difference between their faith and ours. They have since accepted the fact that their daughter was going through with her intention to embrace our religion and be married. I would like to know if it isn't now in order to write to her parents? She is such a very lovely girl that I'd like them to know we think so. If you think I should write them, will you please tell me what to say?

E. G.

Now that the religious viewpoints have been adjusted, and all is progressing so happily with the marriage, it would, I think, be particularly timely as well as kindly for you to write to the parents of your son's wife. It will be natural for you to tell them how happy you and your husband are in the happiness of their daughter and your son; how delighted and proud you are to have such a fine and lovely girl as your daughter-in-law; how wonderfully happy your son is and how hard he is trying to deserve such happiness as has been given him. Speak, too, of your deep wishes and prayers for their future welfare. Of course you didn't tell me many of the circumstances, but I should judge at the moment it would be in the best taste not to mention the religious situation until you know the parents better and until you can, if the subject is broached by them, talk it over with them personally.

Joan Caulfield Stars at Parfen

"Miss Susie Slagle's," the new Paramount film at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, is principally important as the picture which belatedly introduces Broadway's radiant ingenue, Joan Caulfield.

Miss Caulfield enjoys the unique honor to be a star and an extravagantly idolized movie-fan's pet before she ever was seen on the screen.

Another interesting thing about "Miss Susie Slagle's" is the presence in it of one of Miss Pickford's best friends and the screen's great actresses. She would be Lillian Gish, who plays Miss Susie with all her old-time skill and persuasiveness.

Curley Denies Plan To Remove McCarthy

Asserting he was annoyed by repeated reports he intended to remove J. Joseph McCarthy as manager of the George Robert White Fund, Mayor Curley announced today he never had any intention of such action.

"McCarthy has a valid contract which cannot be broken," the mayor said. "He is doing a good job and I am perfectly satisfied with him even though he served as treasurer, at one time, for the Tubin campaign committee.

672 Yanks in Japan Want Kin With Them

TOKYO, April 5 (AP)—Allied headquarters said today 583 officers and warrant officers and 36 enlisted men of the occupation forces and 53 civilians had applied for permission to bring dependents to the Tokyo area. Of the total, 485 agreed to stay at least two years and received high priority.

Triple Pushover

A little matter of odds, at 3-to-1, proved a pushover today for John Tighe, 42, of Worcester st., South End.

Attacked near his home by three Negroes attempting to steal his wallet, Tighe drew up his 185-pound frame to its full 6-foot height, gave battle and sent his would-be assailants in hurried flight.

'Seventh Veil' Superlative

The adult, engrossing British import, "The Seventh Veil," and a little hoke-and-glamor number, "Tangier," are currently splitting billing on Keith Memorial screen.

In line with the present Hollywood trend, Britain's producers have been exploring the mysteries of the mind and have come up with a film that is superlative save for some overlong sequences and a contrived, unconvincing ending. "The Seventh Veil," far from having anything to do with Salome, is a compelling, excellently acted case history of a young concert pianist tortured by complexes.

Ann Todd, lovely, pale-blonde English star who plays the film's heroine, gives a sensitive, arresting performance. She has been compared with the younger Helen Hayes and Greta Garbo but can go onward on her own 14-carat talents.

As a talented 14-year-old, she comes under the guardianship of the Svengali-like James Mason, a dour and crippled aesthete who would make of her a great concert pianist. She does become a great pianist but she also becomes obsessed with fears and frustrations as a consequence of her guardian's repressions and joyless way of life.

A plan to elope and thus escape Mason's inhuman domination is foiled by an accident in which her hands are damaged. Her physical recuperation is quick and satisfactory but she is discovered to have become a psychiatric case.

This portion of the story is handled with extreme intelligence, as Herbert Lom, as her psychiatrist, patiently by means of shock treatments and hypnosis brings her back to mental health.

A fine musical score . . . Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin, Grieg, Rachmaninoff and others . . . is beautifully played by the London Symphony Orchestra with Eileen Joyce, British concert artist, playing the piano solos assigned to Miss Todd.

Tannhaeuser Thrills Gay Throng at Opera Opener

By PEGGY DOYLE

PROBABLY NO MORE representative audience ever attended an opera performance in the Boston Opera House than turned out for last night's opening which initiated the biggest season in the history of the Boston Opera Ass'n.

The old guard, in best bib-and-tucker, was in attendance for the opening performance of "Tannhaeuser" as well as many new and youthful faces unfamiliar to the society editors and the Opera House attendants.

These latter, according to an Opera Ass'n official, were doubtless recruited from the ever increasing army of radio listeners whose regular at-home attendance at the nationally broadcast Saturday and Sunday afternoon opera programs has made them keenly opera-conscious.

Clues suggesting their graduation from radio listening to in person attendance at last night's "live" opera performance were provided by the manner in which their mail-order requests were worded. They were not, in the language of the Sinatra fanciers, hep on the technique of ordering opera-tickets by mail.

They were, though, for the most part, enthusiastically appreciative of Torsten Ralf's Tannhauser, Helen Traubel's Elisabeth, Elanche Thebom's Venus and performances turned in by other members of last night's cast.

Apparently, these enthusiastic newcomers to the ranks of opera-lovers did not share the opinion of some critics that the streamlining of the Wagnerian opera, particularly in the first act, was a case of "cutting out the best of it."

"When people go to hear Wagnerian opera," one of these said, heatedly, "they want all of it. They don't want it thinned by cutting, which is never judicious where Wagner and those of us who are Wagnerian-minded are concerned."

Enthusiasm keynoted the intermission remarks of Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Ass'n, Inc., which annually presents a season of opera here; George A. Sloan, chairman of the board, and H. Wendell Endicott, of the local board of directors. A perfectly magnificent audience, deeply gratified sponsors, outstanding opera organization and great national institution were phrases that cropped up in the impromptu speeches informally delivered by these gentlemen.

In this biggest of opera seasons it was bad news for many disappointed would-be ticket-purchasers to have their checks returned because the operas of their choice had been sold out. Approximately $30,000 had been refunded before curtain-time.

Latest statistics indicate that at this time tickets are available for only four remaining operas . . . "Masked Ball," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Die Walkuere" and "Die Meistersinger." First opera to sell out was "Romeo et Juliette," with opera's glamor-girl, Patrice Munsel, a Sunday afternoon "must" with radio's vast opera-audience.

"La Boheme" and "La Traviata" were the next to be sold out. Jussi Bjoerling, whose Metropolitan Opera career was interrupted by the war, is making his Boston debut in "La Boheme" next Wednesday night. Eleanor Steber, who was graduated at New England Conservatory in 1938, will be heard in the role of Eva in "La Traviata" tomorrow night.

Dorothy M'Guire Brilliant In 'The Spiral Staircase'

CREDIT DOROTHY McGUIRE'S unusually brilliant characterization in a most exacting film assignment and rare imagination in its making for the top-drawer quality of the RKO-Boston's new murder mystery, "The Spiral Staircase."

Required to play a mute servant girl who lost her power of speech as the result of shock following a childhood accident, Miss McGuire, committed to silence in an atmosphere of mounting terror and menace, is incredibly believeable and never theatrical.

She is an honor to the noble company she keeps through most of the tense unreeling, meaning the notable Ethel Barrymore who gives another of her notable performances as the bed-ridden patient cared for by the mute girl.

Others in the wealthy and ill-fated household dominated by the aging, invalided widow, whose mind sometimes strays, are her professor-son, played by George Brent, and his wastrel step-brother, enacted by Gordon Oliver. A frequent visitor is Kent Smith's young neighborhood doctor, newly come to the town and earnestly helpful in encouraging the young girl regain her speech.

The murder of a crippled girl in the village and the subsequent shadowy trailing home of the mute girl several nights later by a mysterious figure terrorize the neighborhood and arouse the widow's household.

The bedridden old lady, watchful and fearful for the handicapped girl, eventually reveals her suspicions of one of her sons, both of whom had been brought up to admire strength against weakness and physical imperfection.

The mounting sense of doom is admirably developed by Robert Siodmak's skilled direction and the admirable performance of the cast with the possible exception of the so obvious villain whose identity shall be nameless for the usual reason.

Fall River Club Holds Field Trials

By "TAP" GODENOUGH

Field trial fans!

If you wish to view some of the best dogs in this part of the country in action, we suggest you plan to attend the annual spring events sponsored by the Fall River Rod and Gun Club, tomorrow and Sunday, at Chace Farm, Brayton Point road, South Somerset, to be run on liberated quail. The contests commence Saturday with the Derby, at 8 a. m., followed by the All-Age Stake. Sunday finds the Puppy Stake beginning at 8 a. m., with the Amateur Stake closing the program.

The grounds consist of rolling terrain, offering plenty of room to satisfy even the wildest going dog. This area is reached from Boston on Route 138 . . . Judges include Harry Gould, Dr. John Meschen and Dick Hoyer.

And here are other dates to circle on your calendars: April 13 and 14 for the Needham Sportsmen's Club's Field Trial, plus April 20 and 21 for bike events, sponsored by the Hingham Sportsmen's Club, at Potter's Field . . . Two trophies will be awarded at Hingham—one for the Open Derby, and the second as a memorial for World War Veterans, in the Open All-Age Stake. More on this later.

The monthly meeting of the Hingham club will be held Monday evening, in the GAR hall, where the Trout Fund Drawing will attract a large throng. Incidentally, Dick Sherman's map of the region, showing how to reach various streams and ponds, plus stockings, is most handy to sportsmen of this area.

MOONEY VS. DOYLE

Jimmy Mooney, Worcester, meets Pat Doyle, Fall River, tonight over 10 rounds at Mechanics Hall, Worcester.

Belated Orchids to Our American Army Officers

By AUSTEN LAKE

EVERYBODY ELSE HAS HAD HIS SAY. So I may as well put in my 3c worth about the "officer caste system," now under fire before a War Department committee. As one who never rose above the rank of buck sergeant in War I and who lived with the combat troops in War II, I speak as a GI.

Austen Lake

The gamut of GI gripes before the committee range from complaints that enlisted men didn't get regular hooch rations, that the best bars were "off limits to E. M.," that officers interpreted their rank as a God-given sign of social superiority to complaints, that they couldn't date the Army nurses et cetera.

But there was no "officer caste system" in the battle areas where the officers lived on a level with their men, ate from the same pot or package, slept in their filthy clothes or where they found themselves, and took the same mortal risks, and died, were mutilated or survived on the same social parity.

A Rear Echelon Squawk

NO, I NEVER HEARD A COMBAT GI squawk about any officer "caste system" or special privilege and I believe that it were put to a test vote those combat soldiers would vote 99 per cent of their officers back to their old rank. O, there was discipline in the fighting front all right, but a good deal of it was self-imposed discipline by the men who recognized that their chance of survival depended on a unison, unhesitating acceptance of orders. Fighting was their business and all ranks did the combat job well—or we couldn't have won this war as emphatically as we did.

Which brings me to my point—that, without question, the vast majority of complaints and acid testimony being given by GI ranks before the War Department, are from rear echelon troops, the SOS, and the operation bases where the men, who never heard the hornet hum of enemy fire, had freer minds to worry about caste and pet their jealousies and the officers were often military dudes concerned with personal vanities and petty privilege. By no means all officers, but some who mistook an overbearing hauteur, self conceit, arrogant pride and harsh language as the essence of discipline, ignoring that in most cases rigid discipline was not required any more than a bank teller, or an insurance agent, or a garage manager, or a restaurant owner need adopt a pompous bearing and imperious air toward his employes. That, I insist, is where the trouble lay and even then only with a minority of misfits, both men and officers.

Discipline in the fighting branches of the army is essential and we had it. But in such top divisions as the 4th Armor, the 9th, 26th, 1st, 29th and 5th Infantry, to mention only a few, there was a mutual brotherhood and healthy democratic exchange between men who respected each other less for theoretical rank than proven charcter. They were men tempered in the fierce crucible of battle who never questioned their human equality but conceded that there must be the leaders and the led.

The bulk of enlisted men of War I disliked and resented the officer class as much 25 years ago as the enlisted alumni of War II do today. For it is hereditary in the American makeup to detest rigid rules of behavior, social boundaries and smothered individuality, so contrary to the broad democratic freedoms to which we are bred. Yet we Americans of both wars were the best dressed, best fed, best paid soldiers in the world. By comparison with the British, French and Russian, our guys were military plutocrats. But they were also civilians in uniform with a deep, soul-searing hatred for their task. So they griped, as is their American heritage, and the farther back from the battle lines one travelled the louder and more bitter the griping grew and the loudest of all was right back here in America. I know because I covered all the geographical areas of the last two wars.

Off Limits to E. P.

FOR EXAMPLE, THE COMBAT SOLDIERS rarely if ever had any trouble with their division MPs. They got along with mutual respect and tolerance. But in the rear echelon the MPs and soldiers were always at acrimonious odds, with the fault mutually divided. The only resentfulness that I encountered on the fighting front was the soldiers' antipathy toward the military government crowd, formed mostly of officers whose only training was in civil administration, but who often assumed an exasperating superiority. Most of them, in my view, were a pain in the neck, with such impish habits as posting a town immediately after the infantry had captured it with signs, "Off Limits to Enlisted Personnel." That really boiled the boys who had taken those towns at the cost of their living flesh.

I recall one MG major who traipsed along with the Fourth Armor into the command post and who came in one evening and began an embittered complaint about looting of German property. "It's got to stop," he stormed. And I said, "I've been listening to the colonel and other officers roar over their radios, 'You guys are going soft! You didn't burn enough houses or kill enough people in that last town. Go in and smoke this next place good. Shoot everything that moves.' How can you expect soldiers who are exhorted to destroy and kill one moment to respect property the next?" His retort was, "Mind your business," in which regard he was probably within his rights.

The Washington "caste" hearing is patently a rear echelon gripe between noncombatant soldiers and officers. In the scales of justice I'd say the balance weighs in favor of the soldiers. There were too many luxury clubs reserved for officers. There were too many medallioned dudes who used their rank to feed a starved vanity and snatch unwarranted privileges. But it's high time the War Department called its shots instead of blackguarding the entire Army officer group, who did a manful, overall job and deserve due credit. Its time to quit our national propensity for name-calling and get down to business. Forget the brass hats and get down to brass tacks.

See Little Hope for Bruins Avoiding Series Shutout

By FRED HOEY

The Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's professioonal hockey championship, will not be deposited here in Boston this year. This almost possitive fact was proved most convincingly last night at the Boston Garden when the Canadiens won their third straight game of the series, 4 to 2. The teams play their fourth game at the Garden Sunday night.

From this post, it looks like four straight for the Canadiens.

The Bruins have flashed their best hockey, and that has not been enough to win. The Canadiens deserve all the tributes. They have been masterful on the ice. No lost motion, just a continual boring in process on the Boston net.

If the Bruins manage to salvage Sunday night's game from this great hockey outfit, it will be a pleasant surprise.

For two periods last night, the Bruins clearly outplayed the Frenchmen. They should have accumulated plenty of goals, but they were simply terrible when scoring opportunities presented themselves.

Up and down the rink the Bruins carried the play in those periods but when the bell sounded for the end of the middle stanza the statistics read, 2-2.

In the third period, the Bruins collapsed completely and Les Canadiens scored the two decisive scores.

The Bruins looked pretty bad in this period. They gave all they had but it was not enough. The ever-dashing Frenchmen simply hung around waiting for a chance to break loose and charge in on Goalie Frankie Brimsek. Frankie did another grand job in the nets but his defensemen were caught down the ice too often, trying to force the breaks. The waiting game of Les Canadiens paid dividens.

The Bill Cowley line with Kenny Smith and Terry Reardon stood out well in defeat. Bill set up many great plays for his mates but luck wasn't with them.

The Kitchener line did all right but they were too closely covered by the Canucks and had a tough job trying to break out.

As the teams square away for their fourth game at the Garden Sunday night, the Bruins still have the smartest team in our book but not the luck of the Canadiens.

After going all out last night and losing for the third straight time, we can't see what the Bruins have left. Power and guts are great but goals are still needed to win.

There is one dark cloud that hovers over the Bruins as they rest up for Sunday's game, and that is the possibility Milt Schmidt will not play.

Milt was bothered plenty in last night's game because of the "Charley horse" that developed in the third game while he was taking a heavy body beating from the Canadiens' defense. He should have stayed out of the third game but things were so desperate for the Bruins that he said he was ok, so Dr. Thomas Kelley, Bruins' physician, gave his approval.

Last night's play was even more rugged on Milt and it was only his guts that carried him through the final period. He was limping badly.

If Schmidt is out of the fourth game, the Bruins' chances of going back to Montreal are almost nil.

Grid Yanks Sign Giant Wingman

Big Sam Goldman, 230-pound wingman who saw limited service with the Boston Yanks in 1944 while still in service, has signed his 1946 contract to give the Hub professional football team another standout end.

According to Coach Herb Kopf, Goldman is potentially one of the finest ends in the National Football League.

Here Come the Red Sox:

Johnny Pesky Best Shortstop in A. L.

By HERB FININNEGAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., AApril 5—There'll be some highly-talented shortstops in thhe A. L. this season—Boudreau, Rizzuto, Travis & Co.—bubut Sox Manager Joe Cronin wouldn't take any one of them for trimrim. He worked out with the BrBruins. (He's been offered pro hochockey contracts.) He worked out in in the Lynn English gym. He wo worked out and took batting prapractice in the Andover cage at eveevery opportunity.

the kid who played short against the Reds here today. That kid is Johnny Pesky, back at his post after missing the '43, '44 and '45 seasons.

Pesky enjoyed a meteoric, if brief, career before he entered the service. He was a clubhouse boy for the Portland, Ore., club of the Coast League and shined spiked shoes not only for Pinky Higgins and Doc Cramer but for Verne Richards, one of the eight catchers the Sox had in camp this spring.

He didn't waste all his time shining shoes, however, "I hit him ground balls by the hour," said Richards. "Every day he'd have somebody hit or pitch to him, but I never thought he'd be an established big leaguer while I still was looking for a job."

Pesky was a poor kid of Czecho-Slav parents. While a schoolboy at Lincoln High he contributed to the support of his parents and upon entering pro ball sent brother Vincent through college.

Unlike Paul Campbell, Tex Hughson, Al Flair, Eddie Pellagrini and many others, Pesky served only two years in the Red Sox chain before coming up. Those were at Rocky Mount and Louisville.

At Rocky Mount (Piedmont League) he batted .325, led the league in hits. At Louisville, he batted .325, led the league in hits and was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Association. A most rare distinction for a lad of 21 with only one year of pro ball behind him.

It was no accident, be assured. Grabbing the Sox job at short after Cronin relinquished the post, Pesky (born Paveskovich) batted .331, led the league in hits (205) and was runner-up for the batting championship to Ted Williams (.356).

Imagine leading three different leagues in the number of hits in three successive years! That's climbing—and hitting! Atop it all, he was third in the A. L. Most Valuable Player award voting of '42.

He enlisted in naval aviation with Ted Williams in '42, later transferred to the Navy. He married comely Ruth Hickey of Lynn in January of '45, was shipped to Hawaii in March of that year. He remained there until December and was discharged a Lt. (jg.) shortly after the last New Year.

He wasted no time getting into

He seems heavier around the chchest and shoulders than of yore, butbut he still gets down to first basbase as fast as anybody in the circircuit. He had more fun in spring tratraining than any other fellow on thethe club.

I He was out of the service, he wawas "in the chips" again and he wawas making the most of it. But alwalways he was improving his hittirting, his fielding, his sliding.

Like Williams, Doerr and Charlielie Wagner, Pesky neither smokes nonor drinks. His every thought is is baseball. He rooms with Doerr onon the road so they can conjure upup new ways of making DP's.

Doerr is a specialist at backhahanding base hits over the bag. It It's practically impossible for him toto throw the runner out at first, hhowever, so now he's flipping the bball to Pesky and Pesky relays it toto first, the DP with nobody on fifirst.

"Al Mazur and I used to pull it often at Louisville," he said.

Pesky's a chunky lad pf 5-9, 170 poounds. He has extremely strong leegs. He's durable and will miss fefew games during the season. He ccan hit and he can slide and he ccan throw. Boudreau? Bad ankles. TTravis? Getting old. Rizzuto? GGreat, but Pesky outhits him.

Only 26 now, after being away since the '42 season, Pesky should ccontinue to improve until he, and mot Marty Marion, is tagged "Mr. Shortstop."

Tomorrow—Bobby Doerr

Bartolo Picked to Win Over Brady at Garden

By JACK CONWAY

DENNIS PATRICK BRADY, starry-eyed 18-year-old fistic sensation from the Bronx, wil be battling to continue his climb up the boxing heights, while Sal Bartolo, NBA world's featherweight champion, will be trying to prove he is even better than Willie Pep when they exchange punches in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight.

Brady, the aggressive puncher, will be pitted against an All-America graduate who has developed into one of the classiest mitt wielders the featherweight division has produced.

Sol Bartolo

On the cold dope, Bartolo should win. He is 26 years of age, has a background of eight years of boxing, has fought most of the featherweights of importance, and also clashed with numerous first class lightweights. It was Bartolo who stopped the ring rush of Gus Mell when the latter was defeating all comers.

Willie Pep has been the big obstacle in Bartolo's path. Pep outscored Bartolo in two Boston bouts before the latter became NBA featherweight boss. The first bout was close, while Pep had a commanding lead in the second tussle. A third meeting is in line for New York.

Bartolo will require all of his skill and speed to prevent the hard hitting Brady from crashing thunderous punches to his jaw and body. Brady has engaged in 27 bouts, and he has won 23 of them by knockouts. He is a determined, hungry fighter eager to become a champion, and he says he will not be awed by Bartolo's reputation or held back by Sal's amazing ability as a boxer.

It will be the old story of the boxer against the puncher. While the boxer as represented by Bartolo should win, Dennis Patrick Brady, the fighter, promises to make it a stirring evening. He usually does.

Al "Red" Priest has started training for his 10-round bout with "Wiggs" Donahue, Philadelphia 150 pounder, which will feature a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on April 16. Priest has been the most consistent and spectacular of the New England boxers. His aggressive style and sharp, hard hitting have enabled him to run up an impressive list of victories.

Donahue has won from Henry Jordan, Billy Furrone, Jimmy McAllister and Sammy Daniels.

Garden Card

Sal Bartolo (Boston) vs. Dennis (Pat) Brady (New York).

Cleo Everett (New York) vs. Vern Esco (New York).

Larry Pacino (Roxbury) vs. Tony Petro (Boston).

Ernie Griffin (Hartford) vs. Jimmy Liscombe (Toronto).

Frankie Young (Roxbury) vs. Frankie Moran (New York).

Tony Trotta (Providence) vs. Gus Edwards (West End).

New Baseball Problem

BILLY SULLIVAN, public relations counsel for the Braves, has been given the task of trying to secure living accommodations in Boston for the Braves and the members of their families. Sullivan has inserted advertisements in the Boston papers asking for people who have homes and rooms to communicate with him at Braves Field.

Many ball players are married and some of them have three children. Gone are the days when ball players and members of their families could get reasonable rentals in fine apartments. It is almost as difficult to find a vacant apartment in Boston as it is for a Boston club to win a pennant.

Random Shots at Target

BABE RUTH'S stand with the ball players who have jumped to the Mexican League could be expected . . . Ruth knows better than most people that there isn't any sentiment in baseball . . . It is a question of ball players getting all they can for their services while they are still able to play well.

Tam Sheehan says there is great interest in the national amateur boxing championships which will be held at the Garden on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week . . . It is likely that the Garden will be a complete sellout for the finals which are expected to produce stirring competition . . . It will be a pre-war amateur boxing show.

Ring Ban Asked In Washington

WASHINGTON, April 5 (INS)—Rep. Bradley (R.) of Michigan, charged today that gamblers have "taken over" professional boxing in the nation's capital and are rigging matches.

Bradley declared that the situation has become "disgusting and nauseating to all true lovers of sports."

He introduced legislation to outlaw professional boxing in Washington, asserting: "Some of our bouts stink to high Heaven."

Simultaneously, Bradley introduced two other pieces of legislation. One would make it a felony for anyone to engage in gambling on any sports event in Washington, D. C., subject to five years' imprisonment and $5000 fine; another would ban mixed bouts.

N. Y. Garden Profits Nearly Double '45

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Madison Square Garden, site of New York's leading indoor sports attractions, reported today a net profit of $226,656 for the three months ended Feb. 28. This compares with a net of $128,652 for the corresponding period a year

Funeral Services for Jack Finnell Tomorrow

Tigers Make Braves Look Bad

By JOE CASHMAN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 5—The Braves have lost the first five games of their 10-game series with the Detroit Tigers. They haven't really come close to winning one. They tried for the sixth time to gain their initial victory over the world's champions here in Birmingham this afternoon. The odds were against them.

The Bengals are pitching Virgil "Fire" Trucks, a local boy who blinded our lads last Sunday, while Billy Southworth must rely on Johnny Sain, losing pitcher in the opening of the series.

Several reasons might be advanced for the failure of the Warriors to make a more creditable showing against the Detroiters.

Wildness of the pitchers; inability to hit safely in the clutches, and ragged fielding.

The real explanation, however, is that the Tigers are a pennant-contending club and the Braves are a second division club as now constituted.

The Allston entry hasn't a pitcher to compare with Hal Newhouser's "Dizzy" Trout, the aforementioned Trucks. They haven't had a pitcher who has looked as good as Tommy Bridges or "Stubby" Overmire.

They haven't hitters like "Hank" Greenberg, Dick Wakefield, Pat Mullin, Barney McCosky and Mike Higgins, who can dent the fences.

Such being the case, Braves' triumphs over the Tigers are bound to be few and far between.

Manager Steve O'Neill hits the nail right on the head when he observes the Tribe lacks punch.

Billy Southworth is sacrificing defensive strength in an effort to add to his offensive power, but his best bets as sticklers appear feeble compared to the Tiger thumpers.

He had Tommy Holmes and Nanny Fernandez back in the lineup at Montgomery yesterday in the game which resulted in a 5-3 win for the Tigers, thanks to Hank Greenberg, who collected a homer, double and single off Jim "Lefty" Wallace.

25-1 Shot Captures Grand National

AINTREE, England, April 5 (AP)—Lovely Cottage, a 25-to-1 shot bought by his present owner in December and ridden by an amateur, today won the 103rd running of the Grand National Steeplechase with a stretch rush that swept him past the faltering favorite, Prince Regent.

Before what was probably the greatest crowd ever to witness a horse race—estimated by police at 400,000—M. Morant's nine-year-old gelding came on to finish four lengths in front of the 100-1 shot, L. S. Elwell's Jack Finlay, as the 3-1 choice, Prince Regent, weakened and wound up third.

Only six of the 34 starters finished the world's toughest test of horses—4 miles 856 yards of rough jumps in two circuits of the ancient Aintree course, which had been used as a depot for United States Army jeeps during the war.

Amateur Rider Capt. R. Petre, who was part of the 145 pounds carried by Lovely Cottage over the 30 fences, ditches and brooks, brought the Morant jumper home on top to pick up the winner's purse of $35,320 in this first running of the Grand National since 1940. The prize was the biggest for any Grand National winner since Mrs. Marion duPont Scott's American-owned Battleship won the 1938 renewal.

Jack Finlay's second place finish was worth $3200 while Prince Regent, one of the shortest-priced favorites ever to go to the post in the Grand National picked up $2000 for coming home third after leading by some 20 lengths as the field neared the stretch.

Lovely Cottage negotiated the two swings around the lopsided shaped course in 9 minutes 38 1-5 seconds, fair time for the course after the overnight showers, but well off the Grand National record of 9:20 2-5, set in 1934 by Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller and equalled in the last running of the Grand National in 1940 by Lord Stalbridge's Bogskar, who was a starter in today's field.

In addition to the three leaders, the only others to successfully negotiate the 30 jumps today and complete the course were Miss Paget's Housewarmer, who wound up fourth; the well-backed Schubert from the barn of Mrs. Keith Cameron, and Clifford Nicholson's Limestone Edward, who was second choice in the betting and challenged Prince Regent for the lead for a few yards on the second time around the course, then faded to sixth.

Somerville Battery Looms as Stickout

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Big league scouts in this area never pass up Somerville High School (not after Danny McFayden, Frank "Shanty" Hogan, Pie Traynor, Eddie Mahan, etc.) and this spring, they'll be back in force to get a peek at a battery that Coach Barney Curtin has working out for the opening of the Greater Boston circuit.

Coach Curtin himself is convinced that the pair are major league timber after spotting their improved work in the few practice sessions at Dilboy Field.

Southpaw Tom Gallagher came late last season but he managed to get in five games. After that, he moved into the local CYO League, turning in a big campaign on the mound. Returning to Somerville this year, he looks like a standout. He'll be tossing them in to Bob Osgood behind the plate, captain of the team and a smoothie as a catcher as well as a slick sticker.

It's probably that Osgood will lean toward Brooklyn with his uncle, Clyde Sukeforth, a scout for the Dodgers and his brother, Charlie, although now in the service, a Brooklynite twirler. If he steps up, Brooklyn would have a brother battery combination in a few years comparable to the Ferrells.

Somerville has only three other veterans back to bid for a berth in the Eastern State title play. Johnnie Tsaikos, another southpaw, will probably alternate between the mound and first base; Jim Forristal will be back at short and utility, Charlie Passinisse will wind up in the outfield, although he'll have plenty of opposition from Bob Ertolini, Jim Woods, Joe Flynn, Bill Avizus, Al Abrahamini, Bill Hardy, Ed Sullivan, Joe Murphy and Surrette.

Infield prospects list: catchers—Dom Mauro, George McDonald, Paul Lonigan, Jim Tobin; pitchers—Alec Gounaris, Al Whitman, Frank Ryan, Gus Vacarro, Leo Baschelis, Al Costa; first—Al Landers, Dough Kneeland; second—Joe Doyle, Walter Jackson, Tom Teegan; short—Dick Tacelli, Joe Esdra; third—Dick Calnan, Jim Karangioze, Jim Mullaney and Joe Texeira.

Jack Burke of Peabody High School has announced that the annual State golf championship will be held June 6-7, although the site has not yet been selected . . . it will be sanctioned by the Headmasters' Ass'n and the outlaw schools will be eligible .

Vet Coast Pitcher Hurls No-Hitter

LOS ANGELES, April 5 (AP)—Joe Demoran, 30-year-old Seattle Rainiers right-hander, today claimed charter membership in the 1946 no-hit club.

The smiling Irishman from Biloxi, Miss., mowed down the Los Angeles Angels, 3-0, yesterday in the first no-hitter of 1946.

Demoran allowed only two men to reach base, but actually faced only 27 batters, as both runners were snuffed out in double plays. One Angel walked, the other was safe on an error. Demoran fanned three.

12 Hawaiians Bradley Guests

The Hawaiian boxers, who are in Boston to compete in the national amateur boxing championship at the Garden next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, will be the guests of Mayor Edward Bradley of Somerville tomorrow.

Mayor Bradley will meet the Hawaiian boxers at the Hotel Manger at 10:30 a. m. and he will then personally escort them by auto to Somerville. After a visit to Somerville City Hall, the Hawaiian boxers will be taken in a tour of Somerville aboard a fire department ladder truck.

The Hawaiian boxers are certain to receive a great reception along the route of their tour. There are 12 members in the Hawaiian party, and they are confident they will win three titles.

The Indiana team sent in its entries today. Included are Gerald and John Labori, of Gary, twins. Gerald will try for the featherweight crown and John will go after the lightweights.

The tournament is certain to provide action for the clients as only one ring will be used and the Monday nightt opener will start at 1 in the afternoon, run through to 11:30 p. m. That means the boys will have to hop in the ring the minute the victim from the previous encounter has been carted, or has walked, off.

Horne-Welch Fray On WCOP Tonight

Sonny Horne (above), who recently interrupted Rocky Graziano's sensational kayo streak, goes into action against punch-packing Coley Welch, Portland, Me., in a middleweight ten-rounder at Manhattan's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Speedy, dangerous Sonny, who hails from Long Island, has won 10 out of 12 fights since his service discharge. Last August Artie Levine marred his record by a TKO. But Horne later reversed the loss. Recently he dropped a verdict to Graziano.

In Coley Welch, the Long Islander comes up against a seasoned performer, whose aggressive, steady-punching style and willingness to mix it up at all times, have helped to make him a favorite with the fancy.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WCOP (1150 on your dial), at 10 p. m.

Despite 72 Score, Nelson Enjoys Round With Jones

By BYRON NELSON

NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5—Well, typical Texas weather prevailed here as the tenth edition of the Masters' tournament got under way with the sun high in the sky and the wind blowing so strongly as to place a premium on those wind cheating shots we Texas golfers are famous for, but ironically enough, it was a couple of mid-Western golfers, Chick Harbert, of Detroit, and Herman Keiser, of Akron, Ohio, who set the pace with sixty-nines.

It is my opinion, at the end of the first day's play, that anybody who has a 75 or better still has an excellent chance of winning.

But for my 72, I got a great deal of satisfaction out of playing around with Bob Jones, and I think he summed up my round better than I could possibly do myself when he turned to me after we holed out on the 18th and said:

"Byron, I think you would have been well satisfied with a seventy-one on that round. Too bad you took a five on that last hole."

My reply to that was: "Bob, you played excellent golf for fifteen holes out there today."

"That's right," he said, "we both played good golf for fifteen holes, but we kind of fell asleep on the other three."

U.S. Income Taxes To Face Jumpers To Mexican Loop

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Baseball players jumping to the Mexican League for higher salaries must pay United States income taxes so long as they are American citizens, the Internal Revenue Department says.

Taxes paid the Mexican government will be deductible from the amount due the United States, said officials. The players will have to pay as much as if all their taxes were paid to the United States, it was pointed out.

What happens in future years will depend principally on whether these players become bona fide residents or citizens of Mexico.
